4 CHS Seniors Merit Finalists

Paul Sarchet, principal of Circleville High School, has been notified four CHS seniors have been named finalists in the 1974 Merit Scholarship Program. These students are Byron D. Gulick, Jack G. Lauderdale, Tamara Ann Miller and Elizabeth Ann Shollenberger.

Less than half of one per cent of the nation's graduating high school seniors are awarded this honor.

Byron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron D. Gulick, 355 Sunset Drive, and has been accepted at the Ohio State University.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lauderdale, Route 2, Jack will be attending Ohio Wesleyan University upon graduation from CHS.

Tamara, who has been accepted at Wittenberg University, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, 570 Wilmar Road.

The Notre Dame University has accepted Elizabeth, the daughter of Mrs. Nancy Shollenberger, 131 Dunmore Road.

As finalists, these students will now be considered for Merit Scholarships. In 1974, a group of 14,000 finalists will compete for approximately 1,000 one-time $1,000 National Merit Scholarships and over 2,000 renewable scholarships.

Finalists who do not win awards will be notified by mid-May. Finalists who do win Merit Scholarships and their principals will be notified confidentially between the middle of March and early May.

Rationing, Allocations Spread Across Nation

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

As more and more states impose rationing systems, the federal government is trying to devise a system to insure that no state is shortchanged on gasoline.

Maryland today became the seventh state to implement the odd-even form of gasoline rationing originated by Oregon. Pennsylvania is due to put such a plan into effect Wednesday.

In Florida, a committee created by Gov. Reuben Askew approved a plan under which communities could decide whether to adopt the odd-even system. Askew was expected to announce today whether the plan would be put into effect.

The Federal Energy Office said Monday it is considering redistributing gasoline supplies among the states to take into account population growth, automobile registrations and state needs.

The redistribution would supercede an allocation formula announced Saturday, FEO officials said. Under that formula supplies were to be redistributed among 22 states and the District of Columbia.

John A. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the FEO, said the new redistribution of gasoline supplies would be announced after the energy office finishes an evaluation of the plan announced Saturday.

Sawhill also said the FEO will begin checking the amount of the nation's oil reserves this week. Sawhill said audit teams would make continuous field checks on information supplied by oil companies.

In Houston, Gulf Oil Corp. said it will challenge in court FEO regulations forcing the company to sell part of its crude oil.

The FEO says the idea is to redistribute refinery capacity more evenly throughout the country so that fuel products can be allocated to the states more equitably.

"This amounts to the unwarranted and ... unlawful taking of private property," said Z.D. Bonner, Gulf's executive vice president.

Four states and the District of Columbia put alternate-day rationing systems into effect Monday.

Under the plans, motorists with even-numbered license plates are able to purchase gasoline on even-numbered days and odd-numbered plates on odd-numbered days. The programs are voluntary except in New Jersey and Hawaii.

Motorists appeared to be adapting well in most areas to the new rationing plans on Monday, but New York State had some problems.

A spokesman for the New York Automobile Club said a survey of the 14 southernmost counties showed that nearly 43 per cent of the stations were not limiting sales to odd-numbered plates.

But in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Washington and the District of Columbia the usual long lines of gas-hungry motorists were reported shorter under the new rationing plans.

World Energy Meet Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The conference of 13 major oil consuming countries ends today with the expectation that it will schedule another high-level meeting at which producers and consumers, including those from the developing countries, will participate.

But otherwise speeches by foreign and finance ministers Monday appeared to confirm the prediction that the problems of the energy shortage go far beyond what a two-day meeting could resolve.

A communique to be issued tonight will show agreement on the seriousness of the situation and on the need for more study and further consultations. But, it is likely to camouflage the gap between the United States, on one extreme, and France, on the other.

The United States, represented by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, is pleading for complete cooperation and promising assistance to its friends and allies who are far more dependent on Arab oil than this country.

Michel Jobert, France's foreign minister, does not want to hear of such close cooperation which, he contends, is impossible because the United States, a major oil producer, cannot be compared with other countries that have to import every drop of oil they need.

Jobert, in an uncompromising

Fresh Word Is Received In Kidnap

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A second letter has been received from the terrorist kidnapers of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, her father announced today. Its contents were not immediately disclosed.

The girl's father, Randolph A. Hearst, leaned out a window of the family's Hillsborough mansion and shouted to newsmen: "A letter has arrived at the station."

The letter was received by radio station KPFA in Berkeley, which received a first letter last Thursday from the Symbionese Liberation Army. The mysterious terrorist group has claimed responsibility for kidnapping Miss Hearst last week.

Hearst sent two members of his family to pick up the letter.

An FBI official had predicted earlier that the family would hear from the abductors by tonight.

Passengers Hit By Gas Shortage

HOUSTON (AP) — None of the 16 passengers got out and pushed when the vehicle in which they were riding ran out of gasoline Monday.

speech, said that Europe must be free to tackle the problem and that it was "not desirable to establish a system of preliminary consultations with the other big consuming entities," such as the United States.

He also argued with Kissinger's request for "agreed rules of conduct" in dealings with the producers. The consumers, Jobert said, should not try to define a "new code ... let us not seek to establish or to impose a new world energy order."

Kissinger suggested that the conference set up some followup mechanism — he called it a "coordinating group" — but Jobert did not like this idea either.

Kissinger, as many times before in speeches and press conferences, again was critical about bilateral deals such as Jobert concluded in two recent tours of the Middle East.

"The only result of unmanaged bilateralism will be to bid up prices perhaps even beyond present levels, and to stabilize them at levels that will ruin the countries making the bilateral

Lower Speed Limit Vote On Schedule For Ohio House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House is to vote today on a bill to lower Ohio's speed limit to 55 miles per hour, but a move will be made on the floor to keep the penalty section from following.

Under current law, persons found guilty of doing more than 70 on expressways are subject to a two-point moving violation on their drivers' licenses.

Twelve points in two years can cost a driver his license.

"The prime purpose of the measure up today," said Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston "is to comply with the federal law aimed at conserving energy."

Nothing was suggested, Riffe said, that point penalties should follow. The bill, as it came out of committee, lowers the points accordingly, however.

"Under the bill as it is now," said House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Ballaure, you could get two points for doing 56 miles an hour on the expressway. I don't believe that is the intent of the federal law."

The idea of the lowering of the speed limit, Riffe said, was compliance with the federal law. He said it was unrealistic not to expect some motorists to do 60.

The House Transportation Committee did remove from the bill a provision that could mean a jail sentence for a second speed violation, as is currently in the 70 mile per hour law.

Both houses of the legislature are to reconvene for the week at 1:30 p.m. There are three bills up in the House and two in the Senate, one which would remove the $3,000 exemption lid on the state income tax.

There was a move under way in the House, meanwhile, to revive for the May 7 ballot a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize the taxation of recreational lands in Ohio on the basis of their use. Voters approved a similar amendment for farmers last November.

The resolution which could mean special taxation at a lower rate for swim clubs, golf courses, and similar facilities—floundered in the House last week after members of the legislature's black caucus refused to go along. They insisted on an amendment that would prohibit a tax break for property owners who discriminate on the basis of sex, race, creed, color, or national origin.

Despite their stand, however, the resolution fell only three votes short of the three-fifths margin it needed for approval. Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, a member of the Senate-House conference committee that worked out the initial agreement said a move was under way to get the three additional votes.

The resolution must pass both houses by Feb. 21 in time to be certified for the May ballot.

Iraq And Iran In Border Clashes

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraqi sources predict more fighting between Iraqi and Iranian forces along the border between the two countries. Both armies were reported rushing reinforcements to the frontier in the wake of two clashes in the past 10 days.

Iran, a Western-oriented kingdom whose army has been equipped largely by the United States, and Iraq, a leftist republic with close ties to the Soviet Union, have been uneasy neighbors for decades. Now the two oil-rich nations appear to be competing for influence over the oil sheikdoms along the Persian Gulf.

Last October, the two countries restored diplomatic relations they had broken three years before and appeared to be on the road to rapprochement.

But early last week, the Iraqis charged the Iranians with an attack on Badrah, a border town 100 miles east of Baghdad, in which they said 10 Iraqis were killed or wounded. On Sunday there was hard fighting in the same area of the border, with Tehran reporting 41 Iranians killed and 81 wounded, and Baghdad reporting one of its officers killed and 22 soldiers wounded.

The two neighbors have been at odds off and on for years over the Shatt al-Arab estuary at the southern end of their joint border. It is the outlet to the Persian Gulf for both Iraq and Abadan, Iran's chief oil port.

In 1969 Iran abrogated a treaty of navigational rights for the waterway. The next year Iraq expelled the Iranian ambassador, accusing monarchist Iran of hatching a plot to overthrow the leftist regime of the BAATH Socialist party in Iraq.

Later that year, Iraq broke diplomatic relations when Iran occupied three islands controlling the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

Last summer, the foreign ministers of the two countries met secretly in Geneva but failed to reach agreement on major issues dividing their governments. Iran reportedly turned down a proposal for United Nations arbitration of the Shatt al-Arab issue; Iraq rejected Iran's claim to the three islands.

British Firms Offer Subsidy To Coal Union

LONDON (AP) — In a move Conservatives fear will embarrass their party in the general elections, a businessmen's group has offered to subsidize Britain's coal miners temporarily if they end their three-day-old strike.

Leaders of the miners' union said they would study the offer at a meeting today.

The offer came from Godfrey Bradman, a director of the London Mercantile Corp., who said he was raising a $5.5 million fund from businessmen and financiers. It would pay the 280,000 miners an extra $4.40 a week in addition to the raises of $5 to $22 a week the National Coal Board can pay them without violating Prime Minister Edward Heath's anti-inflation ceiling.

Bradman's fund would make the payments in anticipation of the increase above the ceiling that a special pay board is expected to award the miners. But the government refuses to set up the board until the miners go back to work.

Heath's Conservative government, which called the election Feb. 28 in an attempt to rally support against the miners, believes Bradman's plan won't work. And it feared it would have an adverse effect on the party's election chances.

One mine union official commented that it showed Heath "does not command the confidence of his own supporters in the business and financial communities."

In a move to improve the chances of the Labor party, Heath's chief opponents, the 30,000 railway engineers decided Monday night to call off their eight-week slowdown in support of wage demands. Union leader Ray Buckton said the move was requested by Labor party leader Harold Wilson and "we will do all in our power to get the return of a Labor government."

There was strong reaction to the Conservative threat in its election platform to cut off welfare benefits to the wives and children of strikers and force the unions to take over the support burden.

In the collieries, the second day of the strike passed peacefully Monday with pickets maintaining a low profile. Two leaders of the miners in Nottinghamshire, Len Clarke and Communist Joe Whelan, said they had received anonymous death threats over the telephone.

Libya Retaliates For Meet By Taking Over U.S. Firms

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — President Moammar Khadafy has retaliated against the Washington oil conference by completing the nationalization of the Libyan properties of three American oil companies.

The "fresh slap in America's face," as Radio Tripoli termed it, promised stormy weather later this week for Egypt's proposal to ease the Arab oil embargo against the United States. The proposal will be argued at a meeting of the Arab oil nations opening Thursday in the Libyan capital.

Khadafy last September took control of 51 per cent of all foreign oil holdings in Libya. A decree Monday issued by his Revolutionary Command Council ordered nationalization of the other 49 per cent of the California Asiatic Co., owned by Standard Oil of California; the American Overseas Petroleum Co., owned by California Asiatic and Texaco; and the Libyan-American Oil Co., owned by Atlantic Richfield.

Libyan-American is a minority partner in an Exxon concession in Libya, but oil sources said Exxon's holdings were not affected by the nationalization decree.

The nationalized properties produce 124,000 barrels of crude oil a day, or about five per cent of Libya's total daily production of more than two million barrels.

The other American companies operating in Libya are Mobil, which produces 120,000 barrels a day; Oasis, jointly operated by Continental, Marathon, Amerada Hess and Royal Dutch Shell, and producing 700,000 barrels; Occidental Petroleum, 370,000 barrels; Amoco (Standard Oil of Indiana), whose daily production of 6,000 barrels was suspended by the Arab oil embargo because it went to the United States.

Energy Freedom Details Are Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the United States to be energy-independent by 1980, the U.S. consumer will have to drive a more economical car and pay higher gasoline prices, the Federal Energy Office says. There's more.

Energy officials say independence also will mean higher parking fees, vehicle registration fees and fuel taxes, and maybe a tax on high energy-consuming appliances.

Industries must cut the energy they use in manufacturing, recycle more of their materials, and shift their schedules to spread their use of electricity more evenly over the calendar and the clock.

The electric power industry itself must shift more of its plants from burning oil to burning coal, the FEO says. As a result the nation must put off for five years the achievement of some of its clean-air standards. While all this is going on, coal production must increase 60 per cent, oil production 22 per cent, natural gas production 15 per cent, and atomic power — now only a small contributor — must multiply tenfold.

All this, it turns out, is what President Nixon meant by "Project Independence," his call last month for a drive to make the United States self-sufficient in energy by 1980.

The Federal Energy Office unveiled the details Monday in a background paper issued at the conference of major oil-consuming nations.

With the sudden tripling of foreign oil prices since last October, the FEO paper said, "it is clear that there has been a fundamental change in the economics of petroleum production.

In recent years, the report said, U.S. energy production has grown about 3 per cent per year. It must grow about 4.6 per cent per year to achieve energy independence by 1980.

U.S. energy demand has increased more than 5 per cent annually for the last three years, and the FEO said studies indicated a long-range growth of about 3.6 per cent per year, or more.

The growth of demand must, instead, be cut to 2 per cent a year, the FEO said.

Rationing, Allocations Spread Across Nation

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

As more and more states impose rationing systems, the federal government is trying to devise a system to insure that no state is shortchanged on gasoline.

Maryland today became the seventh state to implement the odd-even form of gasoline rationing originated by Oregon. Pennsylvania is due to put such a plan into effect Wednesday.

In Florida, a committee created by Gov. Reuben Askew approved a plan under which communities could decide whether to adopt the odd-even system. Askew was expected to announce today whether the plan would be put into effect.

The Federal Energy Office said Monday it is considering redistributing

gasoline supplies among the states to take into account population growth, automobile registrations and state needs.

The redistribution would supercede an allocation formula announced Saturday, FEO officials said. Under that formula supplies were to be redistributed among 22 states and the District of Columbia.

John A. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the FEO, said the new redistribution of gasoline supplies would be announced after the energy office finishes an evaluation of the plan announced Saturday.

Sawhill also said the FEO will begin checking the amount of the nation's oil reserves this week. Sawhill said audit teams would make continuous field checks on information supplied by oil companies.

In Houston, Gulf Oil Corp. said it will challenge in court FEO regulations forcing the company to sell part of its crude oil.

The FEO says the idea is to redistribute refinery capacity more evenly throughout the country so that fuel products can be allocated to the states more equitably.

"This amounts to the unwarranted and ... unlawful taking of private property," said Z.D. Bonner, Gulf's executive vice president.

Four states and the District of Columbia put alternate-day rationing systems into effect Monday.

Under the plans, motorists with even-numbered license plates are able to purchase gasoline on even-numbered days and odd-numbered plates on odd-numbered days. The programs are voluntary except in New Jersey and Hawaii.

Motorists appeared to be adapting well in most areas to the new rationing plans on Monday, but New York State had some problems.

A spokesman for the New York Automobile Club said a survey of the 14 southernmost counties showed that nearly 43 per cent of the stations were not limiting sales to odd-numbered plates.

But in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Washington and the District of Columbia the usual long lines of gas-hungry motorists were reported shorter under the new rationing plans.

He also argued with Kissinger's request for "agreed rules of conduct" in dealings with the producers. The consumers, Jobert said, should not try to define a "new code ... let us not seek to establish or to impose a new world energy order."

"The only result of unmanaged bilateralism will be to bid up prices perhaps even beyond present levels, and to stabilize them at levels that will ruin the countries making the bilateral arrangements before they ruin everyone else," Kissinger told the conference.

A few hours later, at a White House dinner for the ministers, President Nixon backed up Kissinger on this point. It might be good politics to make such deals over the short term, "but over the long term it is bad statesmanship," Nixon said in his toast.

Jobert in his conference speech said there was nothing wrong with such bilateral arrangements, and he was supported by Britain's Sir Alec Douglas Home.

But in his firm resistance against the U.S. position Jobert unexpectedly was left alone: many of his colleagues in the Common Market were far more sympathetic to the Kissinger concept and one of them, Germany's finance minister Helmut Schmidt, in effect sided with the U.S. position.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost more ground today but appeared to be steadying after Monday's sharp decline.

British Petroleum was the Big Board's most active stock, down 1/4 at 11 1/2, in trading that included a 100,000 share transaction and several smaller blocks. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .19 at 48.38.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.15 at 92.53.

Rhodes obtained his license four days before leaving office in 1971. He said he took an oral exam administered by the commission — then composed of Rhodes' appointees — in his office.

Gippin said there was nothing in the files to show Rhodes had been given any tests.

Rhodes said he was given the test in his office because the board felt his presence in an examination room would disrupt the concentration of others taking the test.

"They issued my license in 1972, 1973 and 1974," Rhodes said. "There was no question raised until I became a candidate for governor. This is part of the statehouse plumbers' investigation of their statehouse enemies."

Wedren is a former acting commerce director in the Gilligan administration. He reportedly was asked to return the license because he obtained it without meeting the requirements of having a salesman's license for two years and handling the required number of transactions.

Wedren said later he had "no intention of returning my license. If necessary, I will go to the courts and litigate the matter to its finality."

Judge's Subpoena Of Nixon Apparently Lost In Mail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service is trying to trace a missing registered letter containing a Los Angeles judge's subpoena for the testimony of President Nixon.

The subpoena, mailed by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer's clerk on Feb. 4, had not arrived in Washington, D.C., Superior Court by late Monday.

The judge said, "I'm rendered speechless."

Los Angeles Postmaster James J. Symbol said such a long delay in delivery of registered mail "is not normal at all" and that he was ordering a trace on the letter.

Ringer issued the order for Nixon's testimony at the request of the President's former top domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman.

The document asks Nixon to testify at a hearing Feb. 25 and at the trial of Ehrlichman and two other former White House aides, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young on April 15.

Liddy's attorney, Charles Gessler, raised the possibility that the Feb. 25 hearing might have to be postponed if the subpoena is not found and delivered soon.

The White House has said Nixon will resist the order to testify, but it is likely that the Los Angeles hearing would not proceed until the matter of his possible appearance is settled.

The Washington court, under the uniform code covering out-of-state witnesses, was to hold a hearing on the matter following receipt of the subpoena. The Washington court could either order the subpoena served or quashed.

Ehrlichman, Liddy and Young are

Rhodes To Fight For Realty License

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Real Estate Commission's action to recall 10 brokers licenses followed an "impartial and objective review of license applications," commission Secretary Robert Gippin said Monday night.

Gippin termed as "patently absurd" a charge by former Gov. James A. Rhodes, a Republican candidate for governor, that the action was part of a Democratic administration campaign of political harassment against him.

Gippin noted that of the 10 persons involved, one, Gerald Wedren of Columbus, is a Democrat and six others have no political connections.

The three-member commission Monday gave the 10 until March 11 to surrender their licenses voluntarily or face administrative steps which could lead to revocation of the licenses.

Gippin said the commission investigated 192 license holders who were known to have received special examinations and found irregularities in 10 cases.

Rhodes obtained his license four days before leaving office in 1971. He said he took an oral exam administered by the commission — then composed of Rhodes' appointees — in his office.

Gippin said there was nothing in the files to show Rhodes had been given any tests.

Rhodes said he was given the test in his office because the board felt his presence in an examination room would disrupt the concentration of others taking the test.

"They issued my license in 1972, 1973 and 1974," Rhodes said. "There was no question raised until I became a candidate for governor. This is part of the statehouse plumbers' investigation of their statehouse enemies."

Among others asked to return their licenses were J. Gordon Peltier of Columbus, Rhodes' director of commerce, and Fred P. Neuenschwander of Columbus, the former governor's development director. Both also took the tests in their own offices.

Wedren is a former acting commerce director in the Gilligan administration. He reportedly was asked to return the license because he obtained it without meeting the requirements of having a salesman's license for two years and handling the required number of transactions.

Wedren said later he had "no intention of returning my license. If necessary, I will go to the courts and litigate the matter to its finality."

Judge's Subpoena Of Nixon Apparently Lost In Mail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service is trying to trace a missing registered letter containing a Los Angeles judge's subpoena for the testimony of President Nixon.

The subpoena, mailed by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer's clerk on Feb. 4, had not arrived in Washington, D.C., Superior Court by late Monday.

The judge said, "I'm rendered speechless."

Los Angeles Postmaster James J. Symbol said such a long delay in delivery of registered mail "is not normal at all" and that he was ordering a trace on the letter.

Ringer issued the order for Nixon's testimony at the request of the President's former top domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman.

The document asks Nixon to testify at a hearing Feb. 25 and at the trial of Ehrlichman and two other former White House aides, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young on April 15.

Liddy's attorney, Charles Gessler, raised the possibility that the Feb. 25 hearing might have to be postponed if the subpoena is not found and delivered soon.

The White House has said Nixon will resist the order to testify, but it is likely that the Los Angeles hearing would not proceed until the matter of his possible appearance is settled.

The Washington court, under the uniform code covering out-of-state witnesses, was to hold a hearing on the matter following receipt of the subpoena. The Washington court could either order the subpoena served or quashed.

Ehrlichman, Liddy and Young are

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Too Friendly To Lad

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy nearly 18, and I've always been big for my age. I live with my mother and a younger brother in a nice, friendly neighborhood. That's the trouble, it's too friendly.

One of my neighbors is my mother's friend. She's married to a great guy in his forties, and they have two nice kids. They're beautiful people, and "Mrs. Friendly" has always treated me like one of her kids-until lately. She's been petting me, kissing me and running her fingers through my hair. This was okay when I was 9, but now she gets me all aroused. It's not like she doesn't know what she's doing either. She does it on purpose.

Now I find myself hanging around her place, and I know this is not going to get me anywhere but in trouble. Don't tell me to stay away from her. I know that's what I should do, but I keep finding reasons to hang around her. She's a good looking lady for her age, and half of me says, "Stay" and half of me says, "Run."

Have I got a problem or not?

HALF AND HALF

DEAR HALF: You bet you have. But you're bright enough to see it coming, and wise enough to ask how to head it off. Listen to the half with the brains in it, and stay as far away from "Mrs. Friendly" as you can.

DEAR ABBY: An 18-year marriage has bored me stiff and dissatisfied. A moderate income provides adequate clothes, food and a small home with nothing left for my purse, vacation trips and those extra wants. People say, "Count your blessings," but I ask myself, "Am I supposed to be satisfied with so little as a home, three healthy, trouble-free kids, a vice-free husband who's home every night, who helps with the housework, embraces, and compliments me daily, and is good in bed (but his age is beginning to rob me of that)?"

Would anyone blame me if I left for a man who can show me some fun-even if only for a little while?

BORED

DEAR BORED: I would be among those who would remind you to count your blessings. And yes, I would "blame you" for jeopardizing those blessings for "some fun" even if only "for a little while."

DEAR ABBY: I have a 2-year-old son, and whenever we are in public a stranger is sure to say, "My, what a cute little girl!" This happens even when he's wearing his football suit.

I never dress him like a girl. His hair cut is like most boys his age, but what

Fertilizer Shortage Probe Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Agriculture subcommittee is preparing to investigate the anticipated shortage of fertilizer and its implications on the food supply.

Sen. George McGovern, chairman of the subcommittee on agricultural credit and rural electrification, will chair hearings Feb. 19 as the opening phase of the probe.

"Thirty per cent of our nation's total production of field crops is directly attributable to the availability and application of fertilizer," McGovern, D-S.D., said in a statement today.

"When one considers the fact that our reserves of wheat are at 27-year lows and expected carryovers of corn will be down to somewhere between 400 million and 600 million (bushels) this marketing year, the importance of reaching our production goals becomes all too obvious.

"Whether we are able to reach those goals will be determined not only by weather but also by the availability of essential fertilizer supplies," McGovern added.

He noted that, while planted acreage is expected to increase sharply this year, the Agriculture Department is predicting a seven per cent shortage of nitrogen fertilizer, while the Fertilizer Institute estimates the shortage at twice that figure.

Redskins football games last fall after helping win passage of a bill to increase the seating capacity at Redskins games.

Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, D-Ill., confirmed in a telephone interview that he arranged for 35 to 40 tickets. He said they were sold at cost to House members and congressional aides.

Nancy Vitali, of the subcommittee on buildings and grounds who distributed the tickets, and Richard Sullivan, chief of counsel of the parent Public Works Committee, each used a figure of 60 tickets.

Gray is chairman of the subcommittee and a ranking member of the Public Works Committee.

In the interview, Gray complained that the seats were bad and said the Redskins, after promising a "fair and equitable distribution," had ignored his repeated requests for 250 seats.

Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams said he could not recall "any demand of that kind ever being made" by Gray or anyone on his staff.

He said that if priority was given to any congressman "it was in isolated cases, I suppose."

"It's entirely possible that there's as many as 40 or 60 that were sold, and I underscore sold, to members of Congress," Williams said. "I really don't know that and I really don't have an interest in finding out that."

But, he went on, "as far as making a bloc of tickets available to Congressman Gray, that is just ridiculous."

Redskins games regularly are sold out and there is little turnover in season tickets. There are more than 9,000 persons on a waiting list for such seats and during House debate last summer one congressman said thousands more would sign up if they had any hope tickets would become available.

A Page Of Opinion

Crisis Solving

A common pattern of dependency is evident in many of the crises which arise to confront the American people. Whether it is the collapse of many of the railroad systems, the disruption of petroleum resources, periodic food shortages or the overall debilitating effects of rampant inflation, the nation inevitably turns to Washington for salvation.

The nation's capital is not necessarily where the answers

lie. It may be Washington which has created the problems. The common thread through many of the crises is already heavy involvement by government in an industry and the inability of government agencies to move quickly or resolutely enough to meet changing requirements.

For years it was government policy to hold down wheat production to—it was said—provide the farmer a decent income. When the demand for wheat mushroomed because of heavy foreign sales, wheat farmers were unable to meet the demand largely because they were restrained from planting more.

Government efforts to deflate inflation in the last two years through economic controls have created near record rates of inflation. Could a free economy have responded more favorably? It is time to give it a try.

A Week For Inventors

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—This is National Inventors' Week, which appropriately began with Tom Edison's birthday. It is approved by the Congress, and the Inventors' Hall of Fame in Arlington, Va., center of the ceremonies, is underwritten by the Patent Lawyers Associations of America. The hall was set up two years ago and until now Edison—who invented everything with the possible exception of a Sanskrit cash register—has been the only hero enshrined.

But his ghost will be joined this week by the creators of some commodities and conveniences without which we could hardly function today: his friend, Alexander Graham Bell, who invented the telephone, Eli Whitney, father of the cotton gin, and three living inventors, John Bardeen, W. H. Brattain and William Shockley. They gave us (and, notably, the Japanese) the transistor.

Alas, Abe Lincoln, who was just about to celebrate his 38th birthday the day Edison was born, won't make the Valhalla of Tinkers this year. Abe was granted patent no. 6469 while serving his single term as a Congressman from Illinois (1847-49). Lincoln's brainchild was described by his patent attorney as a "device for buoying vessels over shoals." The man who was to write the Emancipation Proclamation and the Gettysburg speech in this instance was inspired to fashion a string of air bags that, spaced around a vessel below its waterline and inflated by bellows, would allow said ship to conquer rapids and shallow water in general.

The historians tell us little or nothing about Abe the Inventor. (And, incidentally, whatever became of his Birthday?) But if he made anything out of the ship corset—his whittled model is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington—it was peanuts compared to the money made by, let's say, Rose Marie Reid, credited with inventing the bra. Or the income the wife of the incomparable Richard Rodgers has made from Johnny Mop, the toilet-bowl cleaning system available in most supermarkets today.

Hedy Lamarr is not the first name that would pop into most minds if suddenly confronted with a question like "name a great inventor." But while married to then-Captain Gene Markey, USN, she was designated as co-inventor of a highly sophisticated system designed to guide a torpedo to a moving enemy ship. Patent No. 2,292,387 gives her credit under her legal name, Hedwig Keisler Markey.

About 15 per cent of all patent applications filed every year come from women. They are usually less ominous than the one obtained by Hedwig Keisler Markey. In 1961, a patent was issued to Bird A. Byer. It was a toothbrush for dogs.

Betty Galloway of Georgetown, S. C., was only 10 when she was knighted, if that's the word, by the U.S. Patent Office, for her invention of a bubble-making toy. She was indignant. It had taken a great swatch out of her life, fighting to get that patent. She invented the bubble-blower when she was seven.

Lillian Russell, who should have invented the bra, instead invented a trunk with drawers to hold her unmentionables and Diamond Jim Brady's baubles, egad. Lillian Drennen, on the shady side of 60, came up with a patentable aid to respiratory disease sufferers, to add to her patents on a folding boat ladder, a balloon signal for boats in distress, directional aids for traffic lights and numerous items related to medical therapy. Ms. Drennen has no formal schooling to speak of. But then two male inventors, Edison and Lincoln, had a combined total of seven years of formal education.

Berth A. Dlugi got a patent for parakeet diapers. Beula Louise Henry of Raleigh, N. C., has 58 inventions to her credit.

Mark Twain had three inventions to his credit: an innovation in the exciting world of suspenders, a game to help people remember famous dates in history, and, by all odds, his most successful invention—a self-pasting scrapbook. Paul Winchell, the ventriloquist, has a patent on a plastic valve that can replace ailing valves leading to the heart.

My four readers will be chagrined to learn that a patent I applied for when I was a messenger boy and had smoked my first cigaret was turned down. Not being able to afford matches, I invented a cigaret that could be scratched like a match. A bit of tasteless sulphur at the tip of the cigaret would ignite when scratched across a rough surface, like the seat of one's pants, and therefore get the tobacco in the cigaret to burn.

While waiting to hear from the Patent Office, the biggest torment of my life was whether to buy the U.S. Leviathan or a dozen Pierce-Arrows. It was with considerable sadness that I learned there were 71,999 similar applications before mine.

This experience has always made me feel closer to A. Lincoln.

Mrs. H. M., W. Va.

Dear Mrs. M.:

"Milk leg" is known by the rather enchanting name of "phlegmasia alba dolens."

An infection of the veins of the legs (phlebitis) or a clot in the veins interferes with the normal circulation and results in swelling of the legs. Milk, of course, has nothing to do with the onset of this condition.

The only way to avoid a recurrence of a "milk leg" with subsequent pregnancies is to seek any underlying conditions that may predispose you to it.

NEW YORK (AP) — You can choose from dozens of theories that attempt to explain the stock market depression, but one that seems to be picking up believers is that the big banks are responsible.

Surprisingly, among those who have been especially vocal in their belief are rather well-to-do executives who run companies that do hundreds of millions of dollars in business and employ thousands of workers.

The banks, they maintain, have concentrated billions of dollars in shares of a relatively few extremely large companies, leaving hundreds of other "second tier" companies to scrounge for the leftovers.

Because these leftovers are insufficient to support corporate expansion, so goes the theory, the second tier companies have to borrow money from the banks at high interest rates.

As a result, the debt to equity ratio of some companies is said to be not only adverse but dangerous, and some executives are complaining to Congress about it.

Michael Dingman, president of Wheelabrator-Frye, recently explained the market predicament of his company to a Senate subcommittee in these words:

"The stock of Wheelabrator-Frye, Inc., is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. We are active in 22 countries. We have over 6,000 employees in this country alone, and over 80,000 public stockholders...

"Despite the fact our sales have grown 33 per cent compounded over the past three years, and earnings per share from continuing operation have grown 71 per cent...our stock is selling at 13, which is just about its book value."

Dingman was speaking as a member of the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies, made up of scores of corporations which find their future growth thwarted by their inability to attract interest in their shares.

And the big reason, many of the committee members feel, is that the big trust departments, which manage billions of dollars in pension funds, just aren't interested in them no matter how profitable they are.

To committee members, the situation not only is unjust but tragically wasteful.

"The figures that we are submitting show, for example, that while in 1973 the Dow Jones industrials were down 13.6 per cent, the U.S. Trust Co., 'Common Fund' was down 22.85 per cent and Morgan Guaranty was down 20.78 per cent."

Among other recommendations therefore, the committee asks for a "limitation on concentration of investment by pension funds."

A limitation will, committee members believe, protect 30 million workers who are the beneficiaries of pension plans as well as:

"... Help to prevent a few large banks from achieving excessive control over our economy by investing pension fund money which they control so as to acquire a dominant position in our leading corporations."

My father, as did his father before him, wears dental plates that were ordered by mail. I can't convince him that this is foolish and possibly dangerous.

Miss G. A., S. C.

Dear Miss A.:

If there is anything that should not be bought by mail it seems to me it would be dental plates, which should fit precisely.

Improper bite may lead to changes in the jaw joint which can be painful and interfere with chewing and proper digestion.

One of the most important advantages of being examined by a dentist is, of course, the early recognition of diseases and tumors that might otherwise be overlooked.

Rebellion Reported

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Government forces have driven Moslem rebels from the airfield in Jolo and regained control of most other disputed parts of the capital of the Sulu islands, in the southern Philippines, reliable sources reported today.

There was no official confirmation of the report. But a message asking for relief supplies was received in Manila from the Roman Catholic bishop of Jolo, Bishop Philip Smith of Philadelphia, Pa.

Sources in the Social Welfare Department said 20,000 refugees from Jolo have arrived by boat in Zamboanga, on southern Mindanao 100 miles northeast of Jolo and 500 miles south of Manila. The air force flew emergency supplies from Manila for them.

Before the rebel attack on the town last Thursday, the normal population of 40,000 had been more than doubled by an influx of refugees from rebel activity on Jolo Island and elsewhere in the Sulus.

The Moslem militants are fighting for independence, charging that the Philippine government has been encouraging Christians in the northern islands to move south and take Moslem lands.

There are an estimated two million to four million Moslems on Mindanao and in the Sulus, but the Catholics now outnumber them on Mindanao, the southernmost of the main Philippine islands.

A Page Of Opinion

Crisis Solving

A common pattern of dependency is evident in many of the crises which arise to confront the American people. Whether it is the collapse of many of the railroad systems, the disruption of petroleum resources, periodic food shortages or the overall debilitating effects of rampant inflation, the nation inevitably turns to Washington for salvation.

The nation's capital is not necessarily where the answers

lie. It may be Washington which has created the problems. The common thread through many of the crises is already heavy involvement by government in an industry and the inability of government agencies to move quickly or resolutely enough to meet changing requirements.

For years it was government policy to hold down wheat production to—it was said—provide the farmer a decent income. When the demand for wheat mushroomed because of heavy foreign sales, wheat farmers were unable to meet the demand largely because they were restrained from planting more.

Government efforts to deflate inflation in the last two years through economic controls have created near record rates of inflation. Could a free economy have responded more favorably? It is time to give it a try.

A Week For Inventors

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—This is National Inventors' Week, which appropriately began with Tom Edison's birthday. It is approved by the Congress, and the Inventors' Hall of Fame in Arlington, Va., center of the ceremonies, is underwritten by the Patent Lawyers Associations of America. The hall was set up two years ago and until now Edison—who invented everything with the possible exception of a Sanskrit cash register—has been the only hero enshrined.

But his ghost will be joined this week by the creators of some commodities and conveniences without which we could hardly function today: his friend, Alexander Graham Bell, who invented the telephone, Eli Whitney, father of the cotton gin, and three living inventors, John Bardeen, W. H. Brattain and William Shockley. They gave us (and, notably, the Japanese) the transistor.

Alas, Abe Lincoln, who was just about to celebrate his 38th birthday the day Edison was born, won't make the Valhalla of Tinkerers this year. Abe was granted patent no. 6469 while serving his single term as a Congressman from Illinois (1847-49). Lincoln's brainchild was described by his patent attorney as a "device for buoying vessels over shoals." The man who was to write the Emancipation Proclamation and the Gettysburg speech in this instance was inspired to fashion a string of air bags that, spaced around a vessel below its waterline and inflated by bellows, would allow said ship to conquer rapids and shallow water in general.

The historians tell us little or nothing about Abe the Inventor. (And, incidentally, whatever became of his Birthday?) But if he made anything out of the ship corset—his whittled model is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington—it was peanuts compared to the money made by, let's say, Rose Marie Reid, credited with inventing the bra. Or the income the wife of the incomparable Richard Rodgers has made from Johnny Mop, the toilet-bowl cleaning system available in most supermarkets today.

Hedy Lamarr is not the first name that would pop into most minds if suddenly confronted with a question like "name a great inventor." But while married to then-Captain Gene Markey, USN, she was designated as co-inventor of a highly sophisticated system designed to guide a torpedo to a moving enemy ship. Patent No. 2,292,387 gives her credit under her legal name, Hedwig Keisler Markey.

About 15 per cent of all patent applications filed every year come from women. They are usually less ominous than the one obtained by Hedwig Keisler Markey. In 1961, a patent was issued to Bird A. Byer. It was a toothbrush for dogs.

Betty Galloway of Georgetown, S. C., was only 10 when she was knighted, if that's the word, by the U.S. Patent Office, for her invention of a bubble-making toy. She was indignant. It had taken a great swath out of her life, fighting to get that patent. She invented the bubble-blower when she was seven.

Lillian Russell, who should have invented the bra, instead invented a trunk with drawers to hold her unmentionables and Diamond Jim Brady's baubles, egad. Lillian Drennen, on the shady side of 60, came up with a patentable aid to respiratory disease sufferers, to add to her patents on a folding boat ladder, a balloon signal for boats in distress, directional aids for traffic lights and numerous items related to medical therapy. Ms. Drennen has no formal schooling to speak of. But then two male inventors, Edison and Lincoln, had a combined total of seven years of formal education.

Berth A. Dlugi got a patent for parakeet diapers. Beula Louise Henry of Raleigh, N. C., has 58 inventions to her credit.

Mark Twain had three inventions to his credit: an innovation in the exciting world of suspenders, a game to help people remember famous dates in history, and, by all odds, his most successful invention—a self-pasting scrapbook. Paul Winchell, the ventriloquist, has a patent on a plastic valve that can replace ailing valves leading to the heart.

My four readers will be chagrined to learn that a patent I applied for when I was a messenger boy and had smoked my first cigaret was turned down. Not being able to afford matches, I invented a cigaret that could be scratched like a match. A bit of tasteless sulphur at the tip of the cigaret would ignite when scratched across a rough surface, like the seat of one's pants, and therefore get the tobacco in the cigaret to burn.

While waiting to hear from the Patent Office, the biggest torment of my life was whether to buy the U.S. Leviathan or a dozen Pierce-Arrows. It was with considerable sadness that I learned there were 71,999 similar applications before mine.

This experience has always made me feel closer to A. Lincoln.

Regents Plan Draws Cool Reception

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — First official reaction to a proposal to add four state lawmakers to the Ohio Board of Regents might be rated from cool to lukewarm.

"At this point we are not a proponent or an opponent," said Vice Chancellor Harold Oyster of the Board of Regents. He was talking to the Senate Finance Committee at its first consideration of a bill that would expand the board from nine to 13.

But Oyster said the super policy-making panel on higher education has "a couple of concerns."

One concern, he said, was that lawmakers' schedules might preclude their regular attendance at board meetings. Another centered on the manner in which the additional members might be chosen, he said.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33

Youngstown, introduced the measure in the midst of a growing skirmish between lawmakers who want to expand Ohio medical schools and the regents' Chancellor James Norton, who has taken a stand that could deprive Meshel's northeast Ohio district of such an institution.

Meshel said it was not only his reaction to Norton's stand that prompted the bill. Different lawmakers serving as regents over a continuing period, Meshel said, "will give them some fresh input."

Members now are appointed by the governor and serve staggered terms of nine years.

Oyster, who helped create the Board of Regents in 1963 when he was a House member and who later served 15 months as regents chairman, noted that under existing law the education chairman of the Senate and House serve as ex-officio members.

The vice chancellor conceded they have not attended regularly. He said Donald Pease, D-54 Oberlin, House education chairman, has attended recent sessions.

Meshel's bill would cancel their memberships and provide that two members from each house would serve.

Two members would be elected from each political party, one from each chamber, under the Youngstown Democrat's proposal.

Oyster said he thought legislative representatives might more wisely be appointed by leaders of the two houses "like they appoint the controlling board."

He said if the bill is passed he also would like to see the leaders empowered to name alternates to sit in at meetings when the regular legislative member could not be present.

And the number of back street abortionists prosecuted fell from 75 in 1968 to 34 last year.

The Abortion Law Reform Assn. said in its annual review that the figures prove business is bad for the illegal operators.

The number of girls under 16 having abortions has held steady through the five years, the report said. Last year 3,141 of them had legal abortions, 2 per cent of the total.

Legislation Pushed On Mileage Payacks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State employees may receive 15 cents per mile for expenses as the result of legislation rather than a court suit by the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, an association official said Monday.

The association is suing the state to raise the mileage expense as a result of increasing fuel costs.

But, an association official said legislation has been introduced in the legislature which would raise the rate, avoiding a court fight.

the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The entire economy of this southern Pennsylvania community is based on gasoline, hamburgers, steaks, fried chicken and 750 motel rooms.

It serves the truck driver, the traveling salesman, the skier and grandma and grandpa, off to Florida for the winter.

But what does this town do during a gas shortage?

"That's the whole point," says motel owner and lifelong resident Don Felton. "There is no gasoline shortage here. We've got 85 per cent of our gas allocation but only 50 per cent of the trade."

As a result, more than half of the winter complement of 750 employees has been laid off. If the situation does not improve, there is little likelihood the usual 1,200 summer workers will find jobs in Breezeewood this year.

In the late 1950s, the Breezeewood Tourist Association formed to begin a campaign to bring in tourists, the main attraction being Breezeewood's location on the Pennsylvania Turnpike where it meets U.S. 70 heading south.

"We spent years building up a trade, getting people from up North to come South for the winter, during college breaks and such. Now we've got to start again," Felton said.

So Breezeewood again is campaigning, advertising that there is no gas shortage here.

And motel owner Don McFarland said: "We're trying to build a route, a hallway from Canada to the South and guaranteeing the traveler fuel and lodging. They'll be a telephone number people can call to make sure."

"We'll be placing ads in all the major newspapers to advertise the system," said manager Fred L. Bingham.

"What people don't know is that when you get far enough away from the city, there's plenty of gas."

There are 17 service stations in Breezeewood. Only three are closed on Sundays, voluntarily, say their managers. The rest are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"I pumped the very first gas around here," said Ed Crabtree, "and I remember the price wars, when I used to pump for nothing."

"But the middle years were good. Now, with me 63 and just about to quit, things couldn't be worse."

He continued, wagging his head: "If I was young and starting out with a family, I don't know what I'd do."

"But I been in the business long enough to know that what happens tomorrow really don't matter."

Congress Rating Low

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent Harris survey has given Congress the lowest marks for performance in more than 10 years of polling about the federal legislative branch.

The survey reported Monday that 69 per cent of those asked, "How do you rate the job Congress is doing?" said fair or poor. Twenty-one per cent said good or excellent, and 10 per cent were not sure.

On individual topics, Congress received an 88 per cent negative rating on controlling inflation, 83 per cent negative rating on keeping spending under control and 82 per cent negative in inspiring confidence in government.

Faring better was William E. Simon, the man in charge of the nation's energy policy. He received a 35 per cent negative rating and a 26 per cent positive rating. But 39 per cent were not sure how to rate his performance.

Regents Plan Draws Cool Reception

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — First official reaction to a proposal to add four state lawmakers to the Ohio Board of Regents might be rated from cool to lukewarm.

"At this point we are not a proponent or an opponent," said Vice Chancellor Harold Oyster of the Board of Regents. He was talking to the Senate Finance Committee at its first consideration of a bill that would expand the board from nine to 13.

But Oyster said the super policy-making panel on higher education has "a couple of concerns."

One concern, he said, was that lawmakers' schedules might preclude their regular attendance at board meetings. Another centered on the manner in which the additional members might be chosen, he said.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33

Youngstown, introduced the measure in the midst of a growing skirmish between lawmakers who want to expand Ohio medical schools and the regents' Chancellor James Norton, who has taken a stand that could deprive Meshel's northeast Ohio district of such an institution.

Meshel said it was not only his reaction to Norton's stand that prompted the bill. Different lawmakers serving as regents over a continuing period, Meshel said, "will give them some fresh input."

Members now are appointed by the governor and serve staggered terms of nine years.

Oyster, who helped create the Board of Regents in 1963 when he was a House member and who later served 15 months as regents chairman, noted that under existing law the education chairman of the Senate and House serve as ex-officio members.

The vice chancellor conceded they have not attended regularly. He said Donald Pease, D-54 Oberlin, House education chairman, has attended recent sessions.

Meshel's bill would cancel their memberships and provide that two members from each house would serve.

Two members would be elected from each political party, one from each chamber, under the Youngstown Democrat's proposal.

Oyster said he thought legislative representatives might more wisely be appointed by leaders of the two houses "like they appoint the controlling board."

He said if the bill is passed he also would like to see the leaders empowered to name alternates to sit in at meetings when the regular legislative member could not be present.

Tourist Town Has Gas

Sem. Thurmond Doesn't Think Nixon Will Quit

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond said Monday night he doesn't believe President Nixon will resign. Nor does he believe there is evidence for impeachment.

The South Carolina senator made his comments to 1,000 students at Ohio University.

He called for a quick end to Watergate hearings, saying they had become a "big show."

Thurmond predicted voters would not punish the Republican party because of Watergate.

"It's not fair to hold the whole party responsible," he said.

Thurmond accused the press of trying to undermine the public's faith in Nixon, calling the New York Times and the Washington Post "left wing news media."

Fair Skies Cover U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies and a warming trend gave most of the nation a midwinter breather today, replacing recent heavy snows and record low temperatures.

Light snow fell along the shores of the eastern Great Lakes and the northern borders of New England, and scattered showers sprinkled the Pacific Northwest.

Another inch of snow during the night gave Buffalo, N.Y., an accumulation of 13 inches.

But while Sioux City, Iowa, warmed to a record high of 60 for the date Monday, an exception to the unseasonable mildness was along the Gulf Coast, where readings during the night dipped into the 40s.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 4 at Massena, N.Y. to 64 at Key West, Fla.

ERA May Bring State Law Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio legislator says more than 150 changes in state law may be necessary after the Equal Rights Amendment becomes a part of the U.S. Constitution.

Rep. Mike Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, said Monday he will offer a resolution in the House this week to set up a special task force to study what changes will be necessary to conform the revised code with principles laid down by the ERA.

Regents May Reverse Policy On Campus Establishment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A three-year policy which prohibits funding a new campus for higher education within 30 miles of an existing institution may be reversed this week. The Ohio Board of Regents is voting on the establishment of a branch campus in Geauga County.

A resolution to spend $1.5 million to construct a Kent State University facility at Burton will be presented by university officials at the board's session Friday in Cincinnati.

For the past three years the board has opposed the proposal because four other campuses exist within 30 miles of the blueprinted branch.

But two sessions of the Ohio General Assembly have appropriated money for the project prompted by Sen. Robert Stockdale, R-31 Kent.

Vice Chancellor William Coulter says the regents seem "to have run out of authority."

"To continue the roadblock is beyond the regents' general authority," he said.

The regents opposed the allocation of funds a second time, but were ignored.

Dead Cats Part Of Religious Rite?

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP) — Marlene Hawthorne says she's determined to find out why someone left the mutilated bodies of seven cats stacked neatly in the shape of a pyramid on nearby East River Mountain.

Mrs. Hawthorne, president of the Mercer County Humane Society, said the mystery began last Wednesday "when I got this phone call from a man who said there were some cats I should know about. I took it he meant a litter of stray kittens."

She said she met the man, who identified himself only as "Benson," and he led her to a mountain thicket east of the city.

"It took me by surprise," she said. "I expected to see a litter of kittens, and here were all these dead cats. They were neatly piled up in a pyramid so that their bodies came to a point.

"They had been dead for a few days, and when I bent down to examine them, I was horrified to see that none of them had tongues. They had been removed, either ripped out or cut off."

She said the man who identified himself as Benson offered to stay behind and burn the bodies.

Mrs. Hawthorne said that the next day she related the story to a society member with an interest in the occult.

"She checked into some of her books, and found a similarity with the way the ancient Druids observed the Eve of Candlemas every Feb. 2," Mrs. Hawthorne said.

"They believed that Feb. 2 was the most unlucky day of the year, and their ceremony included the torture and sacrificing of cats."

Mrs. Hawthorne said she and her friend went back up the mountain last Friday, but they were unable to find the spot because of a three-inch snowfall.

"Then, that afternoon, I got a phone call," she told newsmen Monday. "It was a man, and it sounded like long distance. He said, 'You'd better butt out because it's a religion with us.'"

"You talking about the cats?" Mrs. Hawthorne said she asked the caller.

"He said, 'Yes,' and hung up," she said. "That really scared me."

She said authorities had shown little interest in her story "but I'm going to get to the bottom of this. I'm going back up there today."

Teacher Contract Gains Approval

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A new contract upgrading teachers' pay was approved late Monday night by the Northwest Board of Education, averting the possibility of a strike in the largest local school district in Hamilton County.

The new contract boosts the starting pay for teachers with a bachelor's degree from $7,470 to $7,800.

The action came after the teachers, who number 627, voted down the board's offer of $7,725.

Nancy Huppertz, president of the teachers' group, said the teachers would be in their classrooms today.

The chancellor said he agrees with the board's rule that campuses to be located more than 30 miles apart, because a student can commute less than that distance.

In the area of the planned branch, Lakeland Community College, Cuyahoga Community College, the University of Akron and Kent State all have campuses.

The board also plans to hear a proposal by the Rio Grande Community College Board of Trustees to make the institution state-supported.

That project has also been on the drawing board for three years.

The regents authorized the board to make plans, but turned down early proposals because of financial concerns as a result of the sparse population in the southern Ohio area.

Trustees are reportedly considering an operating levy to help support the school.

The first mild weather of the month came to Ohio today.

Sunny skies and southwesterly winds were expected to push temperatures into the 40s and 50s across the state. A high centered over the Gulf of Mexico is responsible for the mild weather.

The mild weather is forecast to continue through Wednesday with continued fair skies. A low pressure area and cold front are expected to move to the south shore of Lake Erie Wednesday morning, but then retreat northward.

Overnight lows are forecast from the mid 20s to mid 30s and highs Wednesday again in the 40s and 50s.

Cold, snowy weather is forecast to return to the state this weekend.

It was clear over all but the northeastern corner of Ohio last night. Lows ranged from 33 at Cincinnati to 22 at Zanesville.

Seniors Voice Opposition To Graduation Decisions

By JANET STRUCKMAN
and TERESA OHOL

This week's interviews with seniors at Teays Valley included such discussions as graduation, the class colors, and the commencement exercises.

Jim Morehart, the senior class president, was asked if he was satisfied with the class colors and if not, what would he like to see them. "I don't really care, I just want to get out." He went on to say, "I will go along with the mums as the class flower. They are alright."

"I would like to see the girls in one color and the boys in another," said Vicky Eitel. "I would prefer to see the girls wear light blue and the boys wearing dark blue." When asked about the class flower, Vicky said "Mums look cheap. I would rather have a yellow or white rose."

She feels that the class colors should be narrowed down to a few, then selected by a class vote.

"I think that the blue was a good idea to begin with," said Kim Green who feels that the class should have gotten together and voted on the class colors. "I don't think only a few should have chosen the color for the whole class. Everything is going to be green." She went on to say "I also feel that a carnation would be more appropriate."

"I don't really care what we wear so long as we get out of here," said Neil Wiegand. "The flowers are alright."

Janet DeMint said, "I think that the boys and the girls should have two different colors. For instance, the boys should wear dark green and the girls should wear light green. I feel that green is a fair color." When asked about the flower, she replied "I don't like mums. I would rather the flower were a rose."

Valerie Russell feels that the girls should wear light green and the guys should wear dark green. "I would like to see roses that would match the color of our caps and gowns." She went on to say, "I think that they should have picked about three to five different colors, and let us vote on them in our government classes. I feel that it was unfair to have a few pick the colors and flowers for the class."

"I would like to see the caps and gowns to be some type of an orange color," said Bill Hines. "I think that we should have a carnation instead of a mum. Mums look cheap."

"I am looking forward to getting into some new and different changes by going to college," concluded Bill.

Deb Thompson thinks that the colors should be changed. "I feel that the first vote on the blues was what we should have gotten. Also, instead of a mum, I think that we should have chosen a carnation." She said the announcements were okay except for the color.

Bruce Neff said he was satisfied with the color of the caps and gowns, because he's on the color committee. He goes on to say, "I don't like the blue, because too many other classes have worn blue. Green is a new color for graduation. I also think that we should have a white rose for our flower."

His comment on graduation is "I will be glad to go to college, but I will miss all my friends."

"Any color but GREEN!" said Linda Rogers. "I think that the class colors should be light and dark blue. At least it has something to do with Teays Valley." She goes on to say, "I would like to see the class flower to be a dark red rose."

In summarizing these interviews, it is apparent that a lot of this year's seniors are not satisfied with the selection of the graduation colors or the exercises.

All ten of them voiced strong opposition to the separation of the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies. Most of the comments centered around the fact that with the energy crisis out-of-town relatives will find it difficult to attend both ceremonies.

Another problem will be the seniors will have to return to school after the baccalaureate services. Also, flowers and decorations will have to be purchased twice since the two activities are a week apart.

Council Hears Report On Concessions

By CHRIS HANSEN

The Teays Valley High School Student Council met on Jan. 30.

Jay Brinker, chairman of the concession stand committee, reported on the fantastic progress of the stand in its three weeks of operation.

Council members reported on the most recent school board meeting at which the board approved the installation of a jukebox in the school cafeteria on a trial basis. If it can overcome the obstacle of being heard over the kitchen equipment without being too loud itself, perhaps the jukebox will be accepted permanently.

Mr. Everett, council advisor, reported on the recent teachers' meeting, saying that a teachers committee had been appointed to study possible changes in school grading policies. It was suggested by the council president that a representative attend and take notes at teachers meetings, so that the student council could assist with school policies. This would be done upon approval of school principal, Bill Toney.

The idea of charter buses was introduced once again, but this time the buses would be used for the tournament games.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday at 1:15 p.m.

Student Teacher Enjoys TV's Home Ec Classes

Debbie Killbarger, a senior at OSU, is a student teacher this year at Teays Valley High School. She is majoring in home economics education.

DEBBIE KILLBARGER

When asked about why she chose Teays Valley, she replied, "I requested that I have a school within the southern part of Columbus, and I was happy that they told me about Teays Valley."

Debbie is teaching two classes of child care development and housing. She was asked about the mini-courses at Teays Valley. "I think it is really a good idea. You can get into talking about things at a deeper level than you could with the regular year courses. This way you get to learn about more things in depth."

She also said, "I think it is really good that a lot of guys are taking the mini-courses this year. They need to know about these things also."

"I am excited about student teaching," she said and went on to say, "You meet a lot of people and you don't know if the students will accept you or not. I really like it."

When asked about the split sessions at TV, she replied, "I really can't say much about it, because I don't know how the school system works."

Debbie hopes to find a job after graduation teaching the home economic courses. She went on to say, "I have not yet met all the teachers at Teays Valley, but the ones I have met, I really like and enjoy."

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) My wife receives no pay for the charity work she does for a local hospital. Yet she incurs expenses for traveling from home to the hospital, paying for her lunches and hiring someone to take care of the children while she's at the hospital. Are these expenses deductible as charitable contributions?

(A.) If the hospital is a qualified charitable organization, non-reimbursed out-of-pocket, automobile expenses directly attributable to services rendered to the hospital are deductible as a charitable contribution. Actual expenses or a standard rate of six cents per mile may be deducted. However, the cost of lunches (unless away from home overnight) and babysitting fees are personal expenses and are not directly related and solely attributable to the rendition of charitable services. Thus, they cannot be deducted as a charitable contribution.

(Q.) My tax form instructions constantly refer to "adjusted gross income." What is it?

(A.) This is the total income that appears on line 15 of your Form 1040. Adjusted gross income is arrived at by subtracting business expenses, sick pay, moving expenses, etc., from your gross income. For many taxpayers, however, adjusted gross income is equivalent to their total income.

(Q.) How can I tell whether I should itemize my deductions or choose the standard deduction?

(A.) It usually will be to your advantage to itemize deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes; you had unusually large medical and dental expenses during the year; you paid alimony, suffered a major unusual casualty loss or made large contributions to qualified charities. Your tax form instructions contain a formula you may use to determine whether you should itemize or take the standard deduction.

(Q.) My adjusted gross income is $13,000. Can I get the $2,000 standard deduction?

(A.) No. The standard deduction is 15 percent of your adjusted gross income up to a $2,000 maximum. Fifteen percent of $13,000 is $1,950. This is your standard deduction.

(Q.) Are "tips" taxable?

(A.) All tips you receive are subject to Federal income tax. In addition, cash tips amounting to $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer are subject to withholding of income and social security tax. These tips must also be reported to the employer.

(Q.) I sold my home last fall at a big profit. I am going to use the money to get another house. Should I report the gain from the sale of my old home on my 1973 return?

(A.) If within one year before or one year after the sale, you buy and occupy another residence, the cost of which equals or exceeds the adjusted sales price of the old residence, the entire gain you realize on the sale or exchange is not taxed at the time of the sale and would not have to be reported on your tax return. For more details, see IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home". Use the order blank in your 1040 tax form package to get a free copy.

(Q.) Where can I get information on the tax obligations of operating a business?

(A.) Stop in at your IRS office or post office and pick up a copy of the "Tax Guide for Small Business" (Publication 334). This booklet, which costs $1.00, will aid you in finding the answer to the tax questions that arise when starting, operating and disposing of a business. The publication is also available by mail from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D.C. for $1.25 postpaid.

Mrs. Morrison is a study hall monitor for 5 periods a day. She stated that she enjoys her work here very much.

Mrs. Morrison is involved in community activities outside the school. She works with the TV Athletic boosters, bowls, and sings in the choir at her church.

She had this to say of the student body, "I feel that overall the students are very well behaved in their study halls."

Mrs. Morrison said that she is very glad to be here at TV and she feels that every student should be proud of their school and of the teaching staff at TV.

Mrs. Morrison has two children presently going to TV.

Identification With Parties At Low Level

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll shows voter identification with a partisan political party is at its lowest level in 34 years.

In eight separate surveys taken from September 1973, to January 1974, 12,306 adults, age 18 and older, were asked, "In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat or Independent?"

Forty-two per cent of those surveyed classified themselves as Democrats; 24 per cent identified themselves as Republicans.

Both figures represent the smallest percentage to affiliate with either party since 1940, when the Democratic figure was also 42 per cent and GOP allegiance dropped to 38 per cent.

The remaining 34 per cent of those recently polled did not align themselves with a political party. This represents an increase of eight per cent since 1970 and 14 per cent since 1940 in the number of voters calling themselves Independents.

Police Dog Aids Drug Discovery

EUCLID, Ohio (AP)—A police dog, named Heidi, helped the Euclid police and the Lake-Geauga narcotics unit uncover an estimated $60,000 worth of drugs and stolen property in a high rise apartment complex here.

Det. Robert H. Payne, of Euclid, who headed the weekend raid, said quantities of hashish and marijuana valued at about $55,000 and stolen items such as telephones and weapons valued at about $5,000 were found in an apartment in the Watergate Apartments on Lake Shore Blvd.

Police said Stanley Rush, 24, and Thelma Harvell, 32, both of Cleveland, were charged with possession of marijuana and released in $1,000 bond.

Poster Child Dies

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Lori Ann Wagner, 13, the tiny strawberry blonde who sang her way into the hearts of millions as the 1966 March of Dimes poster child, died Saturday. Lori, who was crippled from the waist down, traveled more than 30,000 miles in 1966, appearing on dozens of telethons and in a movie with Sammy Davis Jr. She died of kidney failure.

The widest film negative ever made, approximately three feet wide, was used in the production of the film "The New York Experience."

TV Seniors Make Plans For Big Day

By CHRIS HANSEN

January and February have been busy months for the Teays Valley seniors as they began making preparations for that big day—graduation. And, after many committee meetings and much careful deliberation, they started on their way.

The motto committee, after much discussion, decided on "The poorest of all men is the man without a dream." This year's flower will be the yellow chrysanthemum.

About two weeks ago, Dave Milner, representative from the Herff Jones Company, measured the Teays Valley seniors for their graduation caps and gowns. The '74 seniors chose dark green and white as their class colors, so all the gowns are to be dark green, with white collars for the senior gals. Caps will also be dark green.

Also during this past week, the seniors voted on and ordered their graduation announcements, namecards, class keys, and all those other goodies that go along with graduation time.

The announcements, also ordered from the Herff Jones Company, are in a three-fold design with the school's crest on the cover. Inside, one will find the class motto, class color, and class flower printed in black, and the main body of the announcement will be placed over a Ghost Viking. The entire announcement, envelopes and all, are a bright lime green. Namecards will also be lime green with black lettering.

Graduation exercises are scheduled for May 26 in the high school gymnasium beginning at 8 p.m. Baccalaureate is planned for May 19, the Sunday before graduation.

TV Welcomes New Study Hall Monitor

Teays Valley's most recent addition to the teaching staff is Mrs. Mona Morrison.

Mrs. Morrison is a study hall monitor for 5 periods a day. She stated that she enjoys her work here very much.

Mrs. Morrison is involved in community activities outside the school. She works with the TV Athletic boosters, bowls, and sings in the choir at her church.

She had this to say of the student body, "I feel that overall the students are very well behaved in their study halls."

Mrs. Morrison said that she is very glad to be here at TV and she feels that every student should be proud of their school and of the teaching staff at TV.

Mrs. Morrison has two children presently going to TV.

Identification With Parties At Low Level

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll shows voter identification with a partisan political party is at its lowest level in 34 years.

In eight separate surveys taken from September 1973, to January 1974, 12,306 adults, age 18 and older, were asked, "In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat or Independent?"

Forty-two per cent of those surveyed classified themselves as Democrats; 24 per cent identified themselves as Republicans.

Both figures represent the smallest percentage to affiliate with either party since 1940, when the Democratic figure was also 42 per cent and GOP allegiance dropped to 38 per cent.

The remaining 34 per cent of those recently polled did not align themselves with a political party. This represents an increase of eight per cent since 1970 and 14 per cent since 1940 in the number of voters calling themselves Independents.

Police Dog Aids Drug Discovery

EUCLID, Ohio (AP)—A police dog, named Heidi, helped the Euclid police and the Lake-Geauga narcotics unit uncover an estimated $60,000 worth of drugs and stolen property in a high rise apartment complex here.

Det. Robert H. Payne, of Euclid, who headed the weekend raid, said quantities of hashish and marijuana valued at about $55,000 and stolen items such as telephones and weapons valued at about $5,000 were found in an apartment in the Watergate Apartments on Lake Shore Blvd.

Police said Stanley Rush, 24, and Thelma Harvell, 32, both of Cleveland, were charged with possession of marijuana and released in $1,000 bond.

Poster Child Dies

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Lori Ann Wagner, 13, the tiny strawberry blonde who sang her way into the hearts of millions as the 1966 March of Dimes poster child, died Saturday. Lori, who was crippled from the waist down, traveled more than 30,000 miles in 1966, appearing on dozens of telethons and in a movie with Sammy Davis Jr. She died of kidney failure.

Debbie Killbarger, a senior at OSU, is a student teacher this year at Teays Valley High School. She is majoring in home economics education.

DEBBIE KILLBARGER

When asked about why she chose Teays Valley, she replied, "I requested that I have a school within the southern part of Columbus, and I was happy that they told me about Teays Valley."

Debbie is teaching two classes of child care development and housing. She was asked about the mini-courses at Teays Valley. "I think it is really a good idea. You can get into talking about things at a deeper level than you could with the regular year courses. This way you get to learn about more things in depth."

She also said, "I think it is really good that a lot of guys are taking the mini-courses this year. They need to know about these things also."

"I am excited about student teaching," she said and went on to say, "You meet a lot of people and you don't know if the students will accept you or not. I really like it."

When asked about the split sessions at TV, she replied, "I really can't say much about it, because I don't know how the school system works."

Debbie hopes to find a job after graduation teaching the home economic courses. She went on to say, "I have not yet met all the teachers at Teays Valley, but the ones I have met, I really like and enjoy."

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) My wife receives no pay for the charity work she does for a local hospital. Yet she incurs expenses for traveling from home to the hospital, paying for her lunches and hiring someone to take care of the children while she's at the hospital. Are these expenses deductible as charitable contributions?

(A.) If the hospital is a qualified charitable organization, non-reimbursed out-of-pocket, automobile expenses directly attributable to services rendered to the hospital are deductible as a charitable contribution. Actual expenses or a standard rate of six cents per mile may be deducted. However, the cost of lunches (unless away from home overnight) and babysitting fees are personal expenses and are not directly related and solely attributable to the rendition of charitable services. Thus, they cannot be deducted as a charitable contribution.

(Q.) My tax form instructions constantly refer to "adjusted gross income." What is it?

(A.) This is the total income that appears on line 15 of your Form 1040. Adjusted gross income is arrived at by subtracting business expenses, sick pay, moving expenses, etc., from your gross income. For many taxpayers, however, adjusted gross income is equivalent to their total income.

(Q.) How can I tell whether I should itemize my deductions or choose the standard deduction?

(A.) It usually will be to your advantage to itemize deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes; you had unusually large medical and dental expenses during the year; you paid alimony, suffered a major unusual casualty loss or made large contributions to qualified charities. Your tax form instructions contain a formula you may use to determine whether you should itemize or take the standard deduction.

(Q.) My adjusted gross income is $13,000. Can I get the $2,000 standard deduction?

(A.) No. The standard deduction is 15 percent of your adjusted gross income up to a $2,000 maximum. Fifteen percent of $13,000 is $1,950. This is your standard deduction.

(Q.) Are "tips" taxable?

(A.) All tips you receive are subject to Federal income tax. In addition, cash tips amounting to $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer are subject to withholding of income and social security tax. These tips must also be reported to the employer.

(Q.) I sold my home last fall at a big profit. I am going to use the money to get another house. Should I report the gain from the sale of my old home on my 1973 return?

(A.) If within one year before or one year after the sale, you buy and occupy another residence, the cost of which equals or exceeds the adjusted sales price of the old residence, the entire gain you realize on the sale or exchange is not taxed at the time of the sale and would not have to be reported on your tax return. For more details, see IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home". Use the order blank in your 1040 tax form package to get a free copy.

(Q.) Where can I get information on the tax obligations of operating a business?

(A.) Stop in at your IRS office or post office and pick up a copy of the "Tax Guide for Small Business" (Publication 334). This booklet, which costs $1.00, will aid you in finding the answer to the tax questions that arise when starting, operating and disposing of a business. The publication is also available by mail from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D.C. for $1.25 postpaid.

Seniors Voice Opposition To Graduation Decisions

By JANET STRUCKMAN and TERESA OHOL

This week's interviews with seniors at Teays Valley included such discussions as graduation, the class colors, and the commencement exercises.

Jim Morehart, the senior class president, was asked if he was satisfied with the class colors and if not, what would he like to see them. "I don't really care, I just want to get out." He went on to say, "I will go along with the mums as the class flower. They are alright."

"I would like to see the girls in one color and the boys in another," said Vicky Eitel. "I would prefer to see the girls wear light blue and the boys wearing dark blue." When asked about the class flower, Vicky said "Mums look cheap. I would rather have a yellow or white rose."

She feels that the class colors should be narrowed down to a few, then selected by a class vote.

"I think that the blue was a good idea to begin with," said Kim Green who feels that the class should have gotten together and voted on the class colors. "I don't think only a few should have chosen the color for the whole class. Everything is going to be green." She went on to say "I also feel that a carnation would be more appropriate."

"I don't really care what we wear so long as we get out of here," said Neil Wiegand. "The flowers are alright."

Janet DeMint said, "I think that the boys and the girls should have two different colors. For instance, the boys should wear dark green and the girls should wear light green. I feel that green is a fair color." When asked about the flower, she replied "I don't like mums. I would rather the flower were a rose."

Valerie Russell feels that the girls should wear light green and the guys should wear dark green. "I would like to see roses that would match the color of our caps and gowns." She went on to say, "I think that they should have picked about three to five different colors, and let us vote on them in our government classes. I feel that it was unfair to have a few pick the colors and flowers for the class."

"I would like to see the caps and gowns to be some type of an orange color," said Bill Hines. "I think that we should have a carnation instead of a mum. Mums look cheap."

"I am looking forward to getting into some new and different changes by going to college," concluded Bill.

Deb Thompson thinks that the colors should be changed. "I feel that the first vote on the blues was what we should have gotten. Also, instead of a mum, I think that we should have chosen a carnation." She said the announcements were okay except for the color.

Bruce Neff said he was satisfied with the color of the caps and gowns, because he's on the color committee. He goes on to say, "I don't like the blue, because too many other classes have worn blue. Green is a new color for graduation. I also think that we should have a white rose for our flower."

His comment on graduation is "I will be glad to go to college, but I will miss all my friends."

"Any color but GREEN!" said Linda Rogers. "I think that the class colors should be light and dark blue. At least it has something to do with Teays Valley." She goes on to say, "I would like to see the class flower to be a dark red rose."

In summarizing these interviews, it is apparent that a lot of this year's seniors are not satisfied with the selection of the graduation colors or the exercises.

All ten of them voiced strong opposition to the separation of the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies. Most of the comments centered around the fact that with the energy crisis out-of-town relatives will find it difficult to attend both ceremonies.

Another problem will be the seniors will have to return to school after the baccalaureate services. Also, flowers and decorations will have to be purchased twice since the two activities are a week apart.

Council Hears Report On Concessions

By CHRIS HANSEN

The Teays Valley High School Student Council met on Jan. 30.

Jay Brinker, chairman of the concession stand committee, reported on the fantastic progress of the stand in its three weeks of operation.

Council members reported on the most recent school board meeting at which the board approved the installation of a jukebox in the school cafeteria on a trial basis. If it can overcome the obstacle of being heard over the kitchen equipment without being too loud itself, perhaps the jukebox will be accepted permanently.

Mr. Everett, council advisor, reported on the recent teachers' meeting, saying that a teachers' committee had been appointed to study possible changes in school grading policies. It was suggested by the council president that a representative attend and take notes at teachers' meetings, so that the student council could assist with school policies. This would be done upon approval of school principal, Bill Toney.

The idea of charter buses was introduced once again, but this time the buses would be used for the tournament games.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday at 1:15 p.m.

Teays Valley Slips To 8th In High School Cage Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Canton McKinley continues to run away with the Class AAA race while Wellsville in Class AA and Mansfield St. Peter's in Class A cling to narrow leads.

That's the situation this week in The Associated Press Ohio high school basketball ratings, with one more poll to be taken next week before the regular season ends.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave McKinley, unbeaten in 17 games, a 262-223 lead over Kettering Alter, the runnerup in Class AAA with a 16-0 mark.

Wellsville's edge was a skimpy six points 242-236 over No. 2 Akron Manchester as Ohio's top two Class AA ranked squads carry unbeaten records into the final week of play. Wellsville is 15-0 and Manchester 16-0.

In Class A, Mansfield St. Peter's, 16-1, piled up 226 points, just 11 in front of runnerup Sebring, 15-1.

There were no new faces among the Class AA top 10, but two new schools moved into the select tens of Class AAA and A.

Middletown took advantage of a victory over Hamilton Taft to claim the No. 10 position in Class AAA with a 13-2 record. Cincinnati LaSalle, 14-2, appeared again in the top 10, advancing to ninth place.

In Class A, Windham and Cortland Maplewood made the top 10 for the first time this season. Windham, 15-1, claimed the No. 9 slot and Cortland Maplewood, 16-1, was No. 10.

111. 6. Canton Lehman, 13-4, 87. 7. Louisville Aquinas, 14-3, 77. 8. Ashville Teays Valley, 15-1, 68. 9. Waverly, 13-3, 62. 10. Columbus Mohawk, 13-3, 49.

Creighton Joins Top Cage Teams

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

A week ago, Creighton University couldn't even be found in that basement category known as "Others receiving votes." Today, the Bluejays from Omaha, Neb., are living in the high-rent district known as The Associated Press College Basketball Poll.

They may not be up there with perennial penthouse dweller UCLA or up on Nob Hill where North Carolina State, Notre Dame, North Carolina and the rest of those high-rollers reside.

Creighton is No. 17, one of three new members in the elite Top Twenty. But while the Bluejays bounded into the listing without so much as a stopover among the "others," 19th-ranked Utah and No. 20 Arizona came out of that alphabetical, non-numerical pack.

Creighton achieved its lofty perch — and knocked Marquette from the No. 6 rung to No. 9 — by upsetting the Warriors 75-69 last Saturday. The feat brought the Bluejays' record to 18-4 and brought them 40 points in the voting by The AP's nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

In the "so what else is new?" category, UCLA retained the No. 1 berth. The Bruins, who flattened Oregon's Ducks 84-66, then got shook by Oregon State's busy Beavers before prevailing 80-75 to raise their record to 18-1, garnered all but one of the 50 first-place votes for 998 points.

Notre Dame, also 18-1, got the other No. 1 vote. But the Fighting Irish, who squeezed past Michigan State 91-89, then romped over LaSalle 98-78 and Duke 87-68, wound up third again with 797 points.

North Carolina State's 17-1 Wolfpack on the strength of its stampedeing of Georgia Tech and Furman, still got enough runner-up nods to gain the No. 2 spot once more ahead of Notre Dame with 893 points. North Carolina, 17-2, remained No. 4 with 642 points after whipping Furman and Georgia Tech, too.

A week ago, Vanderbilt squeezed out one first-place vote. But the Commodores, 18-1, had a shaky week, barely beating Alabama and Mississippi State 60-59. They lost that first-place vote but they still held on to fifth place with 576 points.

Maryland, 15-4, taking advantage of Marquette's woes and its own victories over Virginia and George Washington, moved up one rung to take over the Warriors' No. 6 ranking with 431 points. Pittsburgh, 19-1, 10th a week ago, bounced up to seventh with 386.

Alabama, 16-3, stayed eighth with 331, Marquette, 18-3, got 302 for ninth and Long Beach State, 18-2, dropped down one spot to round out the Top Ten with 299 points.

In the Second Ten are Providence 256, Indiana 215, Southern California 146, South Carolina 134, Michigan 76,

Kansas 57, Creighton 41, Louisville 40, Utah 25 and Arizona 17. TexasEl Paso, Oral Roberts and Maryland-Eastern Shore fell out of the Top Twenty. The Top Twenty, with firstplace votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday, Feb. 9 and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Wolverines In 1st Place In Big Ten

By JOE MOOSHIL

AP Sports Writer

Michigan's Wolverines swept into first place in the Big Ten basketball race but Indiana's Hoosiers remain the team to beat.

Michigan edged Northwestern 50-49 at home but Indiana exploded for an 81-63 victory over Wisconsin to stay in command for the lead in the Big Ten race.

Purdue fell back with a 112-111 loss to Iowa but Michigan State kept alive its hopes with a 75-67 overtime victory over Ohio State.

In the only other Big Ten games, Minnesota defeated Illinois 80-61 and Michigan State pulled out a 75-67 overtime victory over Ohio State.

Sophomore Quinn Buckner hit for 17 points and was brilliant on the floor as 12th-ranked Indiana ran by Wisconsin.

Bob Hildebrand missed a pair of free throws with three seconds to go and Michigan walked off with the victory.

It was a defensive struggle all the way with Northwestern hanging on at 49-49 with 41 seconds to play. The Wolverines then cashed in two free throws to clinch the outcome.

NFL Player Director Eyes Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed Garvey admits to having played only high school football — but he has become a burr under the saddle of National Football League owners and Commissioner Pete Rozelle, as well as the lightning rod for the professional players.

For the past three years as executive director of the NFL Players Association, the 33-year-old Garvey has challenged, taunted, cajoled, negotiated, lambasted and sued the NFL owners and Rozelle on behalf of the some 1,200 players who are members of the pro football union.

The biggest test in the history of the 18-year-old association — the Super Test in the jargon of the league — opens March 16 when the union and the owners begin negotiations on a new collective bargaining agreement.

Commissioner Rozelle and union boss Garvey have engaged in some bloody battles, but the negotiation of a new contract threatens to be a Super War.

In his plush offices in downtown Washington, Garvey tells an interviewer that a players' strike or an owners' lockout next summer would not benefit anyone; that the players want to play football, but they also want their freedom from the vise-tight grip he says the owners hold them in.

Though he makes such statements with apparent sincerity — along with a typically generous dose of offbeat humor — one gets the feeling that there will be a strike or a lockout unless the palyers win most, if not all of their demands.

LE Frosh Eliminated From Tournament

The Mid State freshman basketball tournament at Amanda-Clearcreek pits Canal Winchester against Liberty Union 4:15 p.m. and Pickerington against Berne Union at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

In last Saturday's games, Logan Elm was eliminated 31-18 by Bloom Carroll and Fairfield Union was defeated by Fisher Catholic 49-25.

Joe Paterno has a winning percentage of .825 for his seven seasons at Penn State — 63 wins, 13 defeats and one tie.

Oakland A's Out In Front In Arbitration

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's, world champions on the baseball diamond, are apparently out front in salary arbitration as well.

About 10 Oakland players have submitted their salary disputes with owner Charles O. Finley to a neutral arbitrator, as provided for by the new agreement between the Major League Baseball Players Association and the club owners.

A's relief pitcher Rollie Fingers and third baseman Sal Bando head the list, with their hearings scheduled for today. Among the other A's still unsigned, and likely to have asked for arbitration, are Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi, Ken Holtzman, Gene Tenace, Darold Knowles, Billy Conigliaro, Ted Kubiak and Jack Heidemann.

Finley, meanwhile, has said he plans to argue each dispute personally.

A total of about 45 players have submitted their names for arbitration, according to a spokesman for Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, who was in San Francisco for the hearings. Other hearings will be held in New York and Chicago.

Dick Woodson, a 28-year-old pitcher for the Minnesota Twins, Monday became the first player to have his salary dispute heard by an arbitrator under the new guidelines.

Detroit lawyer and labor arbitrator Harry H. Platt met with Woodson, Twins official Clark Griffith and their attorneys for more than four hours on the salary deadlock. He said a final contract for Woodson had been filed at the hearing, which he described as "a historic occasion."

Under the new agreement, players who failed to reach a contract agreement may ask for arbitration. In that process, the player and the club each names a final figure, and the arbitrator — one of 14 men previously agreed upon by the owners and the players association — picks one figure or the other.

The arbitration process is a voluntary one, and players who have not signed may still negotiate on their own if they prefer.

Central District Class AA Tourney Drawings Held

Teays Valley was the top seeded team in the Grove City Sectional Class AA tournament and Circleville the second seeded team.

Blackballed Centenary Big Winner

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has taken on the frustrating job of trying to ignore a basketball team with an 18-3 record and a seven-foot, one-inch center who could become the next Bill Walton.

Teays Valley Slips To 8th In High School Cage Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Canton McKinley continues to run away with the Class AAA race while Wellsville in Class AA and Mansfield St. Peter's in Class A cling to narrow leads.

That's the situation this week in The Associated Press Ohio high school basketball ratings, with one more poll to be taken next week before the regular season ends.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave McKinley, unbeaten in 17 games, a 262-223 lead over Kettering Alter, the runnerup in Class AAA with a 16-0 mark.

Wellsville's edge was a skimpy six points 242-236 over No. 2 Akron Manchester as Ohio's top two Class AA ranked squads carry unbeaten records into the final week of play. Wellsville is 15-0 and Manchester 16-0.

In Class A, Mansfield St. Peter's, 16-1, piled up 226 points, just 11 in front of runnerup Sebring, 15-1.

There were no new faces among the Class AA top 10, but two new schools moved into the select tens of Class AAA and A.

Middletown took advantage of a victory over Hamilton Taft to claim the No. 10 position in Class AAA with a 13-2 record. Cincinnati LaSalle, 14-2, appeared again in the top 10, advancing to ninth place.

In Class A, Windham and Cortland Maplewood made the top 10 for the first time this season. Windham, 15-1, claimed the No. 9 slot and Cortland Maplewood, 16-1, was No. 10.

Canton South, 16-1, made the most sensational advance in any of the three divisions. The Wildcats leaped from 10th a week ago to fifth place among the Class AAA powers.

Springfield North again was third in Class AAA and Boardman hung on to the No. 4 spot. Dayton Dunbar was sixth, Warren Western Reserve seventh and Hamilton Taft eighth.

Newark Licking Valley kept the No. 3 spot in Class AA, followed by Genoa, Millersburg West Holmes, Canton Lehman, Louisville Aquinas, Ashville Teays Valley, Waverly and Columbus Mohawk.

Cleveland Lutheran East replaced Lorain Clearview as the state's third-ranked Class A team, Clearview falling into East's old No. 4 position. Sidney Lehman was fifth in Class A and then came Marion Pleasant, Pittsburg Franklin Monroe, Sugar Creek Garaway, Windham and Cortland Maplewood.

Oakland A's Out In Front In Arbitration

By ALEX SCHARE

AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's, world champions on the baseball diamond, are apparently out front in salary arbitration as well.

About 10 Oakland players have submitted their salary disputes with owner Charles O. Finley to a neutral arbitrator, as provided for by the new agreement between the Major League Baseball Players Association and the club owners.

A's relief pitcher Rollie Fingers and third baseman Sal Bando head the list, with their hearings scheduled for today. Among the other A's still unsigned, and likely to have asked for arbitration, are Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi, Ken Holtzman, Gene Tenace, Darold Knowles, Billy Conigliaro, Ted Kubiak and Jack Heidemann.

Finley, meanwhile, has said he plans to argue each dispute personally.

A total of about 45 players have submitted their names for arbitration, according to a spokesman for Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, who was in San Francisco for the hearings. Other hearings will be held in New York and Chicago.

Dick Woodson, a 28-year-old pitcher for the Minnesota Twins, Monday became the first player to have his salary dispute heard by an arbitrator under the new guidelines.

Detroit lawyer and labor arbitrator Harry H. Platt met with Woodson, Twins official Clark Griffith and their attorneys for more than four hours on the salary deadlock. He said a final contract for Woodson had been filed at the hearing, which he described as "a historic occasion."

Under the new agreement, players who failed to reach a contract agreement may ask for arbitration. In that process, the player and the club each name a final figure, and the arbitrator — one of 14 men previously agreed upon by the owners and the players association — picks one figure or the other.

The arbitration process is a voluntary one, and players who have not signed may still negotiate on their own if they prefer.

Creighton Joins Top Cage Teams

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

A week ago, Creighton University couldn't even be found in that basement category known as "Others receiving votes." Today, the Bluejays from Omaha, Neb., are living in the high-rent district known as The Associated Press College Basketball Poll.

They may not be up there with perennial penthouse dweller UCLA or up on Nob Hill where North Carolina State, Notre Dame, North Carolina and the rest of those high-rollers reside.

Creighton is No. 17, one of three new members in the elite Top Twenty. But while the Bluejays bounded into the listing without so much as a stopover among the "others," 19th-ranked Utah and No. 20 Arizona came out of that alphabetical, non-numerical pack.

Creighton achieved its lofty perch — and knocked Marquette from the No. 6 rung to No. 9 — by upsetting the Warriors 75-69 last Saturday. The feat brought the Bluejays' record to 18-4 and brought them 40 points in the voting by The AP's nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

In the "so what else is new?" category, UCLA retained the No. 1 berth. The Bruins, who flattened Oregon's Ducks 84-66, then got shook by Oregon State's busy Beavers before prevailing 80-75 to raise their record to 18-1, garnered all but one of the 50 first-place votes for 998 points.

Notre Dame, also 18-1, got the other No. 1 vote. But the Fighting Irish, who squeezed past Michigan State 91-89, then romped over LaSalle 98-78 and Duke 87-68, wound up third again with 797 points.

North Carolina State's 17-1 Wolfpack on the strength of its stampedes of Georgia Tech and Furman, still got enough runner-up nods to gain the No. 2 spot once more ahead of Notre Dame with 893 points. North Carolina, 17-2, remained No. 4 with 642 points after whipping Furman and Georgia Tech, too.

A week ago, Vanderbilt squeezed out one first-place vote. But the Commodores, 18-1, had a shaky week, barely beating Alabama and Mississippi State 60-59. They lost that first-place vote but they still held on to fifth place with 576 points.

Maryland, 15-4, taking advantage of Marquette's woes and its own victories over Virginia and George Washington, moved up one rung to take over the Warriors' No. 6 ranking with 431 points. Pittsburgh, 19-1, 10th a week ago, bounced up to seventh with 386.

Alabama, 16-3, stayed eighth with 331. Marquette, 18-3, got 302 for ninth and Long Beach State, 18-2, dropped down one spot to round out the Top Ten with 299 points.

In the Second Ten are Providence 256, Indiana 215, Southern California 146, South Carolina 134, Michigan 76,

Kansas 57, Creighton 41, Louisville 40, Utah 25 and Arizona 17. Texas El Paso, Oral Roberts and Maryland-Eastern Shore fell out of the Top Twenty. The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday, Feb. 9 and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

1. UCLA (49)	18-1	998
2. N. C. St.	17-1	893

4. N. Carolina	17-2	642
5. Vanderbilt	18-1	576
6. Maryland	15-4	431
7. Pittsburgh	19-1	386

Wolverines In 1st Place In Big Ten

By JOE MOOSHIL

AP Sports Writer

Michigan's Wolverines swept into first place in the Big Ten basketball race but Indiana's Hoosiers remain the team to beat.

Michigan edged Northwestern 50-49 at home but Indiana exploded for an 81-63 victory over Wisconsin to stay in command for the lead in the Big Ten race.

Purdue fell back with a 112-111 loss to Iowa but Michigan State kept alive its hopes with a 75-67 overtime victory over Ohio State.

In the only other Big Ten games, Minnesota defeated Illinois 80-61 and Michigan State pulled out a 75-67 overtime victory over Ohio State.

Sophomore Quinn Buckner hit for 17 points and was brilliant on the floor as 12th-ranked Indiana ran by Wisconsin.

Bob Hildebrand missed a pair of free throws with three seconds to go and Michigan walked off with the victory.

It was a defensive struggle all the way with Northwestern hanging on at 49-49 with 41 seconds to play. The Wolverines then cashed in two free throws to clinch the outcome.

NFL Player Director Eyes Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed Garvey admits to having played only high school football — but he has become a burr under the saddle of National Football League owners and Commissioner Pete Rozelle, as well as the lightning rod for the professional players.

For the past three years as executive director of the NFL Players Association, the 33-year-old Garvey has challenged, taunted, cajoled, negotiated, lambasted and sued the NFL owners and Rozelle on behalf of the some 1,200 players who are members of the pro football union.

The biggest test in the history of the 18-year-old association — the Super Test in the jargon of the league — opens March 16 when the union and the owners begin negotiations on a new collective bargaining agreement.

Commissioner Rozelle and union boss Garvey have engaged in some bloody battles, but the negotiation of a new contract threatens to be a Super War.

In his plush offices in downtown Washington, Garvey tells an interviewer that a players' strike or an owners' lockout next summer would not benefit anyone; that the players want to play football, but they also want their freedom from the vise-tight grip he says the owners hold them in.

Though he makes such statements with apparent sincerity — along with a typically generous dose of offbeat humor — one gets the feeling that there will be a strike or a lockout unless the players win most, if not all of their demands.

LE Frosh Eliminated From Tournament

The Mid State freshman basketball tournament at Amanda-Clearcreek pits Canal Winchester against Liberty Union 4:15 p.m. and Pickerington against Berne Union at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

In last Saturday's games, Logan Elm was eliminated 31-18 by Bloom Carroll and Fairfield Union was defeated by Fisher Catholic 49-25.

Joe Paterno has a winning percentage of .825 for his seven seasons at Penn State — 63 wins, 13 defeats and one tie.

AAU WINNER—Judy Ikenberry, a 31-year-old mother of three from Crestline, Calif., raises her arms as she crosses the finish line of the first women's national marathon championship at San Mateo, Calif. She won in 2:55.17. It was the first marathon race ever for women sanctioned by the AAU.

Central District Class AA Tourney Drawings Held

Teays Valley was the top seeded team in the Grove City Sectional Class AA tournament and Circleville the second seeded team.

Drawings were held Monday at the Jai Lai Restaurant in Columbus under the supervision of Paul Sarchet, Circleville High School Principal, who is the Central District Board president of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn.

Teays Valley (15-1) was paired against Mifflin (6-10) 7 p.m. Feb. 23. Logan Elm (8-9) drew Dublin (9-8) in the tournament and will play 8:30 p.m. Feb. 23.

Circleville drew perhaps the toughest assignment of the three local schools. The Tigers (12-5) will play Columbus Hartley (12-5) 8:30 p.m. Feb. 22 following the Hamilton Twp. (4-13)-Bexley (8-9) game scheduled at 7 p.m.

The Grove City sectional appears to be the toughest of the four in the Central District. Combined won-lost records of all eight teams in the district total 74-60.

Thirty-two class AA teams all begin the battle on Feb. 22 for the two regional berths. Two teams from each sectional go to the district which is scheduled March 3, 5, 8 in the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus.

Windmills Being Used For Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shades of the Netherlands!

A federal agency is developing a windmill for placement atop homes to provide electricity that will help out in the energy shortage.

This windmill would not look like the ones scattered across the Dutch landscape. Instead, it would look something like a glorified egg-beater. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the windmill, estimated to cost $500 to $1,000, would provide "inexpensive and non-polluting" electricity for home use.

The first full-scale experimental model already has been erected atop a two-story building at NASA's Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., and initial tests are being planned, the agency said.

If tests pan out well, NASA says, such devices might someday be used initially as auxiliary power sources for average homes.

Eventually, says the agency, such house-top windmills, in conjunction with other envisioned developments, might furnish a complete power system for an individual home.

"If, for example, the windmill could produce hydrogen gas from river water, and the gas could be compressed and stored for use during windless periods, "an extremely efficient and economical power source could be provided for home use," NASA said.

Demo Suit Would Halt Spending

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Four Democratic aspirants for statewide office were to testify in court today on a suit seeking to stop the spending of party funds on the campaigns of the endorsed slate of candidates in the May primary.

The suit, filed by James D. Nolan of Cleveland, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, requests temporary and permanent restraining orders against the Democratic Executive Committee.

Scheduled as witnesses at a Franklin County Common Pleas Court hearing today were Nolan and candidates John Glenn, for the U.S. Senate; Anthony O. Calabrese, for lieutenant governor, and John F. Kennedy, for secretary of state.

Nolan said in the action the party plans to spend large sums of money to aid the endorsed slate.

"We contend in this lawsuit that we not only raised money for the state Democratic party but each of us contributed money which was intended for use in the general election against Republican candidates," Nolan said.

"Now we are in the distraught position of finding that the Gilligan-bossed machine plans to use this money against us in the primary campaign."

Issue Report On Housing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Governor's Housing and Community Development Advisory Commission has submitted its final report on Ohio's housing problems.

The report notes that two major housing bills are currently before the state legislature.

One would update the laws defining landlord-tenant relationships. The other would allow the Ohio Housing Development Board to provide technical and financial assistance to developers.

The report said other legislation being drafted by the commission would provide representation of public housing tenants on local housing authority boards and permit the State Housing Board to act as a local housing authority in any area not served by public housing.

The commission was appointed by Gov. John Gilligan in August, 1971, to determine the extent of Ohio's housing problems and recommend solutions.

Special Plates Seen Difficult In Gas Rationing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 20,000 Ohio motorists could face a problem if Ohio should adopt the so-called Oregon plan for selling gas to holders of odd-number license plates one day and those of even-numbered the next.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles estimated Monday that about 20,000 Ohioans have special plates with nothing on them but letters, in many cases their initials.

Robert Tenenbaum, press secretary for Gov. John J. Gilligan, said that while adoption of the Oregon plan has not been considered, he might suggest a solution to the problem.

"Going by the last letter, divide them between A and M one day, and from N through Z the next," he said. Logical enough.

Some Fish Stocking Wasteful?

By JIM DAUBEL

Written for Associated Press

The practice of stocking hatchery-reared game fish in wild streams is defended by advocates who argue, "that's what the people want and it isn't hurting anything."

Fishery researchers in Montana, however, have collected data that casts doubt on the premise.

Biologists say the new evidence flatly confirms the suspicion that Montana's program of planting catchable trout seven inches or longer is bad for blue ribbon streams.

Ohio has so few streams that support trout naturally that the Montana study is not applicable to the Buckeye State, one Division of Wildlife spokesman pointed out.

Johnny Bench Now Owner Of 'Home Plate' Restaurant

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Johnny Bench has added another venture to a burgeoning corporate empire which could make him a millionaire by his 28th birthday, but insists his success can't be measured until he's completed some unfinished baseball business.

The Cincinnati Reds All-Star catcher talked of finances and his future Monday amid the opening of his new restaurant called "Johnny Bench's Home Plate."

"I'll be a millionaire by the time I'm 28, but that's not real important to me," said the 26-year-old baseball star who grew up on the dusty, sunbaked Oklahoma plains of his Indian ancestors.

"I want to be successful at what I do. I want to be a World Champion. And after baseball, maybe some broadcasting and movie acting. But I figure I have six to nine more years of baseball," Bench said.

In the background a giant replica of a scoreboard blinked as a bevy of short-skirted beauties scurried to greet customers.

"The scoreboard cost $10,000," said Bench. "Would have cost $25,000 to get all the lights working," he laughed.

Neon bounced off rows of framed Reds photos—old and new.

"We call this room 'The Dugout,'" said Bench. The name sprang from a sunken area of the cocktail lounge which is bedecked with bright red uniforms, bats, balls and gloves.

Behind the bar gleamed a trophy case stuffed with symbolic souvenirs of Bench's greatest achievements: The Most Valuable Player Award, a trophy for leading the league in home runs in 1972 and other gold-plated memorabilia.

Customers entering the posh new restaurant are invited to leave their wrappings in a row of red lockers.

They can take their pick of where they prefer to dine.

"This is the football room," said Bench, pointing to a spacious area decorated with large glass blowups of Cincinnati Bengals in action. Behind the silhouette is a background of AstroTurf stretching the length of the wall.

Continuing his tour, Bench strolled through "The Basketball Room" and "The Hockey Room" as teen-aged girls dressed as cheerleaders watched.

But Ohio does conduct extensive stocking of other species in rivers and lakes. And, as the Montana researchers noted in conclusion:

"These facts, in turn, suggest the entire national policy of stocking catchables in streams with thriving wild populations is a waste of sportsmen's dollars and actually means fewer year-round fishing opportunities for the angler."

It was well known in Montana that, although most hatchery-raised fish die within weeks after planting, the stocking program did improve fishing immediately after the plant.

Local anglers who frequented the stocked streams, however, complained that fewer fish were caught year-round and those that were taken were smaller than the wild fish they had been harvesting before stocking began.

An exhaustive study of three sections of one stream ensued. Trout populations were counted periodically on stretches of river that, 1) had never been stocked, 2) had been stocked but on which the practice was halted for study purposes, and 3) was newly stocked for the study.

When planting ended on one section, overall trout numbers tripled within two years, as did the total of large fish.

When catchables were introduced for the first time, the trout population decreased 50 per cent in two years.

Trout numbers in the unstocked water remained constant.

Territorial by nature, trout establish home grounds and defend their domain against other fish.

Biologists in Montana theorize that stocking is detrimental because native fish, driven from their territories by competition from the new arrivals, soon fall victim to predators in new surroundings.

The stocked fish, accustomed only to hatchery conditions, cannot adapt to the wild and soon perish themselves.

Urbana Horseman To Receive Honor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dick Buxton, 45-year-old Urbana horseman, will receive the Ohio Harness Writers Association's annual Achievement Award as the Ohioan who contributed the most to harness racing in 1973.

Buxton, in 1973, ran his career totals to 1,253 victories and his purse earnings to $2,513,232.

He trained and drove such outstanding standardbreds last year as trotting queen Killbuck Mary, Little Brown Jug heat winner Faraway Bay and 3-year-old pacing stakes winners Racing Knight and American Skipper.

Windmills Being Used For Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shades of the Netherlands!

A federal agency is developing a windmill for placement atop homes to provide electricity that will help out in the energy shortage.

This windmill would not look like the ones scattered across the Dutch landscape. Instead, it would look something like a glorified egg-beater.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the windmill, estimated to cost $500 to $1,000, would provide "inexpensive and non-polluting" electricity for home use.

The first full-scale experimental model already has been erected atop a two-story building at NASA's Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., and initial tests are being planned, the agency said.

If tests pan out well, NASA says, such devices might someday be used initially as auxiliary power sources for average homes.

Eventually, says the agency, such house-top windmills, in conjunction with other envisioned developments, might furnish a complete power system for an individual home.

"If, for example, the windmill could produce hydrogen gas from river water, and the gas could be compressed and stored for use during windless periods, "an extremely efficient and economical power source could be provided for home use," NASA said.

Demo Suit Would Halt Spending

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Four Democratic aspirants for statewide office were to testify in court today on a suit seeking to stop the spending of party funds on the campaigns of the endorsed slate of candidates in the May primary.

The suit, filed by James D. Nolan of Cleveland, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, requests temporary and permanent restraining orders against the Democratic Executive Committee.

Scheduled as witnesses at a Franklin County Common Pleas Court hearing today were Nolan and candidates John Glenn, for the U.S. Senate; Anthony O. Calabrese, for lieutenant governor, and John F. Kennedy, for secretary of state.

Nolan said in the action the party plans to spend large sums of money to aid the endorsed slate.

"We contend in this lawsuit that we not only raised money for the state Democratic party but each of us contributed money which was intended for use in the general election against Republican candidates," Nolan said.

"Now we are in the distraught position of finding that the Gilligan-bossed machine plans to use this money against us in the primary campaign."

Issue Report On Housing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Governor's Housing and Community Development Advisory Commission has submitted its final report on Ohio's housing problems.

The report notes that two major housing bills are currently before the state legislature.

One would update the laws defining landlord-tenant relationships. The other would allow the Ohio Housing Development Board to provide technical and financial assistance to developers.

The report said other legislation being drafted by the commission would provide representation of public housing tenants on local housing authority boards and permit the State Housing Board to act as a local housing authority in any area not served by public housing.

The commission was appointed by Gov. John Gilligan in August, 1971, to determine the extent of Ohio's housing problems and recommend solutions.

Special Plates Seen Difficult In Gas Rationing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 20,000 Ohio motorists could face a problem if Ohio should adopt the so-called Oregon plan for selling gas to holders of odd-number license plates one day and those of even-numbered the next.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles estimated Monday that about 20,000 Ohioans have special plates with nothing on them but letters, in many cases their initials.

Robert Tenenbaum, press secretary for Gov. John J. Gilligan, said that while adoption of the Oregon plan has not been considered, he might suggest a solution to the problem.

"Going by the last letter, divide them between A and M one day, and from N through Z the next," he said. Logical enough.

Some Fish Stocking Wasteful?

By JIM DAUBEL
Written for Associated Press

The practice of stocking hatchery-reared game fish in wild streams is defended by advocates who argue, "that's what the people want and it isn't hurting anything."

Fishery researchers in Montana, however, have collected data that casts doubt on the premise.

Biologists say the new evidence flatly confirms the suspicion that Montana's program of planting catchable trout seven inches or longer is bad for blue ribbon streams.

Ohio has so few streams that support trout naturally that the Montana study is not applicable to the Buckeye State, one Division of Wildlife spokesman pointed out.

Johnny Bench Now Owner Of 'Home Plate' Restaurant

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Johnny Bench has added another venture to a burgeoning corporate empire which could make him a millionaire by his 28th birthday, but insists his success can't be measured until he's completed some unfinished baseball business.

The Cincinnati Reds All-Star catcher talked of finances and his future Monday amid the opening of his new restaurant called "Johnny Bench's Home Plate."

"I'll be a millionaire by the time I'm 28, but that's not real important to me," said the 26-year-old baseball star who grew up on the dusty, sunbaked Oklahoma plains of his Indian ancestors.

"I want to be successful at what I do. I want to be a World Champion. And after baseball, maybe some broadcasting and movie acting. But I figure I have six to nine more years of baseball," Bench said.

In the background a giant replica of a scoreboard blinked as a bevy of short-skirted beauties scurried to greet customers.

"The scoreboard cost $10,000," said Bench. "Would have cost $25,000 to get all the lights working," he laughed.

Neon bounced off rows of framed Reds photos—old and new.

"We call this room 'The Dugout,'" said Bench. The name sprang from a sunken area of the cocktail lounge which is bedecked with bright red uniforms, bats, balls and gloves.

Behind the bar gleamed a trophy case stuffed with symbolic souvenirs of Bench's greatest achievements: The Most Valuable Player Award, a trophy for leading the league in home runs in 1972 and other gold-plated memorabilia.

Customers entering the posh new restaurant are invited to leave their wrappings in a row of red lockers.

They can take their pick of where they prefer to dine.

"This is the football room," said Bench, pointing to a spacious area decorated with large glass blowups of Cincinnati Bengals in action. Behind the silhouette is a background of AstroTurf stretching the length of the wall.

Continuing his tour, Bench strolled through "The Basketball Room" and "The Hockey Room" as teen-aged girls dressed as cheerleaders watched.

But Ohio does conduct extensive stocking of other species in rivers and lakes. And, as the Montana researchers noted in conclusion:

"These facts, in turn, suggest the entire national policy of stocking catchables in streams with thriving wild populations is a waste of sportsmen's dollars and actually means fewer year-round fishing opportunities for the angler."

It was well known in Montana that, although most hatchery-raised fish die within weeks after planting, the stocking program did improve fishing immediately after the plant.

Local anglers who frequented the stocked streams, however, complained that fewer fish were caught year-round and those that were taken were smaller than the wild fish they had been harvesting before stocking began.

An exhaustive study of three sections of one stream ensued. Trout populations were counted periodically on stretches of river that, 1) had never been stocked, 2) had been stocked but on which the practice was halted for study purposes, and 3) was newly stocked for the study.

When planting ended on one section, overall trout numbers tripled within two years, as did the total of large fish.

When catchables were introduced for the first time, the trout population decreased 50 per cent in two years.

Trout numbers in the unstocked water remained constant.

Territorial by nature, trout establish home grounds and defend their domain against other fish.

Biologists in Montana theorize that stocking is detrimental because native fish, driven from their territories by competition from the new arrivals, soon fall victim to predators in new surroundings.

The stocked fish, accustomed only to hatchery conditions, cannot adapt to the wild and soon perish themselves.

Vanderbilt Tops Louisiana State; Wins Tilt 91-88

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Any evaluation of the Vanderbilt crowd depends on which side of the court you're sitting ... And which side of the final score you're sitting on.

"This was the best crowd
we've had all year," said
Vanderbilt Coach Roy
Skinner, whose fifth-ranked Commodores required some clutch foul shooting in the last 30 seconds to squeeze past
Louisiana State 91-88 in a
Southeast Conference college basketball battle Monday night.

But LSU Coach Dale Brown painted a much bleaker
picture of the Nashville crowd.

"Tonight was just sickening," said Brown, who revealed that a man had called the Vandy field house at halftime and threatened to shoot LSU player Collis
Temple and the LSU coach.
"If this is freedom, we've really messed it up."

In other games involving
Top 20 teams, eighth-rated
Alabama remained one game behind Vanderbilt in the chase for the SEC title with a 76-74 victory over Mississippi

State; 12th-ranked Indiana
steamrolled Wisconsin 81-63,
15th-rated Michigan nipped Northwestern 50-48, and newcomer to the rankings,
No. 17 Creighton, whipped St.
John's of Minnesota 81-43.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Check all facts. Do not take reports or statements at face value—especially if they're likely to influence your attitude toward co-workers.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, vitality and an unusual gift of leadership. You are so extremely versatile that you could succeed in almost any field which appeals to you and for which you educate yourself. However, you would probably do your best in one of the professions. In such case, it will be important to remember, however, that you MUST curb an instinctive tendency to be dogmatic, or you could alienate associates. Your flair for the dramatic could make you an excellent trial lawyer or, on the stage, an heroic actor. You could also succeed at writing, stamanship and (or) music. Ali-Quarry Fight Called Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali has reneged on a proposed fight with Jerry Quarry, who feels he's a victim of a conspiracy.

But Monday the Garden announced that the conference had been canceled because there was no fight to announce.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The TV news business is the subject of today's dissertation. First up: The recent decision by WNBC-TV here to start doing a two-hour local evening news show by mid-April or early May.

The step is considered radical for Fun City, but remember, this is a hamlet where attending old movies is considered avant garde.

The long form of local TV news is old hat for Los Angeles viewers. It began there in April 1968 at KNBC-TV, an NBC owned station, with two hours of local, state, national and world news in the early evening each week night.

The first show ran from 5 to 6 p.m., followed by the national half-hour NBC news and then another hour-long local news show.

The format was changed in November 1970 to two separate, but consecutive, local evening news shows. They started at 5 p.m., ended at 7 p.m. and were followed by the "NBC Nightly News."

It still works that way and the long form concept there is starting to get competition from two other major TV stations.

Last week, rival KNXT, owned by CBS, went from an hour-long evening news show to 90 minutes, starting at 5:30 p.m. The new format features separate half-hour and hour-long news programs, each with its own anchorman, before the "CBS Evening News" at 7 p.m.

And this spring, another network-owned station in Los Angeles, KABC-TV, is moving to a two-hour local news format in the early evening, according to Al Primo, vice-president for news at ABC's five TV stations.

He said the same spring change will occur at KGO-TV, the network's San Francisco station.

ABC-TV's fine "Close-Up" investigative series plans to investigate — stand by, now — television. It'll be the September offering for the series, recently renewed for a second season.

Av Westin, ABC News' vice-president for documentaries, says the show won't involve the oft-criticized television news area.

Instead, it'll concentrate on the equally-criticized area of entertainment programming by all three major TV networks.

He says it will cover "the decision-making processes that bring certain kinds of programming to the air," and also touch on the controversial ratings that decide the fate of network TV shows.

CBS' "60 Minutes," which last month did an excellent study of junkets and other journalistic problems, now is toiling on a new piece about local TV news shows, using the colorful San Francisco market to illustrate what is happening in many regions.

Among other things, it'll inspect the role of "news consultants" hired to suggest ways local TV news efforts can draw more viewers.

Truck Traffic Nearly Normal Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Produce and meat were pouring into the nation's marketplaces at expected paces today as the over-the-road movement of freight by independent truck drivers returned to nearly normal.

There were continued reports of holdouts who were not in favor of ending the 11-day, violence-marred shutdown. But they were in a small minority.

U.S. automakers reported the 15,000 men they were forced to lay off or put on short shifts because of a breakdown in parts deliveries during the strike were back on the job Monday. Production was described as normal.

And others among the 100,000 persons temporarily idled by the shutdown over fuel prices and freight rates went back to work. A vacuum cleaner company in Bloomington, Ill., told its 1,700 workers to be back on the job Wednesday.

Truck traffic was described as being between 80 and 100 per cent of normal in the areas hardest hit by the strike. And violence had almost ended, with a few scattered shooting incidents reported.

Several of the smaller groups of independents reversed their rejection votes Monday, and others scheduled new votes for today and Wednesday.

One strike leader in Florida predicted many of the drivers who had returned to work would strike again. He claimed the six per cent freight rate surcharge granted drivers was not enough. He said drivers had only returned to work to replenish their pocketbooks.

Meanwhile, the truckers were replenishing the supplies of meat, produce and industrial parts that dwindled during their shutdown.

Spokesmen at major market centers warned that consumers still might be faced with higher prices and short supplies for several days. But there was no mistaking that a return to work had been accomplished.

Officials of the New England Produce Center, which handles distribution throughout its region, and at several Midwest livestock markets reported receipts close to, or above, prestrike levels.

Don Stanford, director of the Atlanta Farmer's Market, said deliveries had increased "but are not back to normal yet. Most truckers went to work Sunday, but they have to reload and return to the market before any real results are evident."

The solidarity of the independent truckers' strike in Ohio appeared to be breaking up as state officials reported truck traffic back to 80 per cent of normal.

"All the signs are the strike is over," said Robert Tenenbaum, press secretary to Gov. John Gilligan. Tenenbaum said the Public Utilities Commission and the Ohio Highway Patrol estimated that 80 per cent of the truck traffic had returned.

Tenenbaum said that the governor is considering deactivating the National Guard.

"We're waiting to see if there is any further violence," he said.

"The governor's decision will be based on what happens overnight. Most of the violence has been happening at night."

A National Guard spokesman at the guard's headquarters in Ravenna reported Monday night that only one incident had been recorded during the day despite "a substantial increase in the truck traffic."

The spokesman said a truck traveling on Sandy Road south of Interstate 76 in Portage County had its windshield broken by stones. The driver was not injured.

"The guard was not involved in the incident," the spokesman said. "It was reported to us by the highway patrol."

Meanwhile, a group of independent truckers from Franklin decided to hold another vote on returning to work today and a split has developed among the leadership of the Ohio Council of Independent Truckers.

More than 500 owner-operators met at a Franklin truck stop Saturday and voted overwhelmingly to reject the government's proposal.

Carl Bray, a spokesman for the group, said today's vote would not be related to the government's proposals, but only whether to end the 11-day-old shutdown.

"If the men want to stay out, we will stay out, but I think it's time for them to vote again," Bray said.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported the arrest of a Franklin, Ohio, man following a shooting incident on Interstate 75 in Warren County early today.

Harlan G. Sexton, 38, was being held by Franklin police charged with assault, carrying a concealed weapon and discharging a firearm from a moving vehicle.

According to the patrol, a patrolman spotted someone firing on a tractor-trailer rig shortly before 3 a.m., gave chase and arrested Sexton. The patrol also reported recovering a .38-caliber pistol the patrolman saw being thrown from Sexton's car.

The driver of the truck fired upon was not injured.

PUCO Fights Gasoline Cut

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown has assigned four staff lawyers to determine what Ohio can do about the federal government's decision to cut the state's gasoline allocations.

Brown said there are several remedies under the law. "Just because the federal government has acted," he said, "it doesn't mean the states are powerless to do anything about it."

Brown met Monday with Sally W. Bloomfield, a member of the Public Utilities Commission, to discuss the reduction of up to 2 per cent order by the Federal Energy Office.

State officials deplored the cut which they said was made without prior consultation and announced for the first time through the news media in Washington.

John Ledingham, communications officer for the commission, said the possibility of improper notice and the lack of consultation are among legal aspects being looked into.

Edmund J. Turk, commission chairman, said the cut for Ohio and nine other states was not justified. "Knowing there was a shortage in other states did not justify taking it away from Ohio motorists and putting it somewhere else," he said.

Ledingham quoted Turk and others as saying they were advised beforehand that Ohio was doing a better job conserving fuel voluntarily "than any other state."

He said a preliminary check by the commission staff indicated the state might be able to live with a 2 per cent cut if it has to. Indications were it would not create "a real damaged situation," he said.

But the communications officer reiterated concern that announcements such as that of the past weekend "might start panic buying in Ohio. That's something we haven't had."

Milk Production In 1973 Below USDA Predictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk production last year was down 3.6 per cent from 1972, a sharper drop than had been expected by Agriculture Department dairy experts.

The year's output was 115.6 billion pounds, compared with 119.9 billion in 1972, the Department said Monday in a monthly report. And 1974 got off to a poor start too, with less than 9.3 billion pounds in January, 3 per cent less than a year earlier.

The Department had predicted for some time that 1973 milk production would be down about 3 per cent to a preliminary estimate of 116.5 billion pounds.

In reviewing last year, the report said the average number of milk cows on farms for all of 1973 was 11,419,000 head. Officials said that was a record low mark and represented a 2 per cent decline from 1972.

"Output per cow in 1973 was 10,125 pounds, down 1 per cent from 1972," the report said. "This marked the first time since 1944 that production per cow has declined from the previous year."

The record year for milk production was 1964 when the nation's herds produced 127 billion pounds. Output in 1973 was 9 per cent below that mark. Wisconsin was the leading producer last year with 18.4 billion pounds of milk, down 4 per cent from 19.2 billion in 1972.

Other leading states and percentage changes from 1972 included: California 10.3 billion pounds, unchanged; New York 9.7 billion, down 6 per cent; Minnesota 9.4 billion, down 2 per cent; and Pennsylvania 6.7 billion, down 5 per cent.

Only six states showed increases last year. Those and percentage gains were: Alabama up 1 per cent; Alaska 3; Arizona 15; North Dakota 2; South Dakota 2; and Washington 1.

Truck Traffic Nearly Normal Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Produce and meat were pouring into the nation's marketplaces at expected paces today as the over-the-road movement of freight by independent truck drivers returned to nearly normal.

There were continued reports of holdouts who were not in favor of ending the 11-day, violence-marred shutdown. But they were in a small minority.

U.S. automakers reported the 15,000 men they were forced to lay off or put on short shifts because of a breakdown in parts deliveries during the strike were back on the job Monday. Production was described as normal. And others among the 100,000 persons temporarily idled by the shutdown over fuel prices and freight rates went back to work. A vacuum cleaner company in Bloomington, Ill., told its 1,700 workers to be back on the job Wednesday.

Truck traffic was described as being between 80 and 100 per cent of normal in the areas hardest hit by the strike. And violence had almost ended, with a few scattered shooting incidents reported.

Several of the smaller groups of independents reversed their rejection votes Monday, and others scheduled new votes for today and Wednesday.

One strike leader in Florida predicted many of the drivers who had returned to work would strike again. He claimed the six per cent freight rate surcharge granted drivers was not enough. He said drivers had only returned to work to replenish their pocketbooks.

Meanwhile, the truckers were replenishing the supplies of meat, produce and industrial parts that dwindled during their shutdown.

Spokesmen at major market centers warned that consumers still might be faced with higher prices and short supplies for several days. But there was no mistaking that a return to work had been accomplished.

Officials of the New England Produce Center, which handles distribution throughout its region, and at several Midwest livestock markets reported receipts close to, or above, prestrike levels.

Don Stanford, director of the Atlanta Farmer's Market, said deliveries had increased "but are not back to normal yet. Most truckers went to work Sunday, but they have to reload and return to the market before any real results are evident."

The solidarity of the independent truckers' strike in Ohio appeared to be breaking up as state officials reported truck traffic back to 80 per cent of normal.

"All the signs are the strike is over," said Robert Tenenbaum, press secretary to Gov. John Gilligan. Tenenbaum said the Public Utilities Commission and the Ohio Highway Patrol estimated that 80 per cent of the truck traffic had returned.

Tenenbaum said that the governor is considering deactivating the National Guard.

"We're waiting to see if there is any further violence," he said.

"The governor's decision will be based on what happens overnight. Most of the violence has been happening at night."

The spokesman said a truck traveling on Sandy Road south of Interstate 76 in Portage County had its windshield broken by stones. The driver was not injured.
